Two new airlines get wings from govt

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

AIR travellers are set to have more options as three new domestic airlines prepare to launch operations. Two carriers—Al Hind Air and FlyExpress—received their No Objection Certificates from the civil aviation ministry this week, while Uttar Pradesh-based Shankh Air, which already has an NOC, is likely to begin flights in 2026.

The development gains significance following IndiGo's operational meltdown in early December, which drew sharp criticism over the apparent duopoly in India's domestic aviation market. The aviation ministry is keen to have more airline operators in the country, which is one of the world's fastest growing domestic civil aviation markets.

"Over the last one week, pleased to have met teams from new airlines aspiring to take wings in Indian skies- Shankh Air, Al Hind Air and FlyExpress. While Shankh Air has already got the NOC from the Ministry, Al Hind Air and FlyExpress have received their NOCs this week," Civil Aviation Minister K Rammohan Naidu said on X.

—Civil Aviation Minister K Rammohan Naidu on X

The ministry wants to encourage more airlines in Indian aviation sector, which is amongst the fastest growing international aviation markets.

Al Hind Air is being promoted by Kerala-based alhind Group, which was founded in the 1990s.

Schemes like UDAN have enabled smaller carriers Star Air, India One Air and Fly91 to play an important role in the regional connectivity within the country and there is scope for further growth, he added.

Currently, there are nine operational domestic carriers in the country: Air India, Air India Express, IndiGo, Alliance Air, Akasa Air, SpiceJet, Star Air, Fly91 and IndiaOne Air, as per data from the Directorate General of Civil Aviation.

● To challenge Sengar's bail ● Meets Rahul, gets promise of top lawyer

Unnao survivor to approach SC seeking justice

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

A day after the Delhi High Court suspended the life sentence awarded by a trial court to former BJP MLA Kuldeep Singh Sengar in the 2017 Unnao rape case, the survivor on Wednesday said she would move the Supreme Court.

On Wednesday, she and her mother staged a protest near Mandi House against the HC verdict.

Earlier in the day, the duo met Congress leaders Rahul Gandhi and Sonia Gandhi after alleging ill-treatment by Delhi Police. On Tuesday night, the survivor and her mother were reportedly forcefully removed by police from a protest site near India Gate.

Speaking to the media, she said no one from the government came forward to help her while Rahul Gandhi promised to get a top lawyer to fight the case in the Supreme Court.

The survivor said the HC's decision to suspend Sengar's jail term is kaal (death) for her family. "If the convict gets bail in a case like this, how will the country's daughters remain safe? For us, this decision is no less than kaal," she said.

In its order on Tuesday, the HC granted bail to Sengar with conditions. It directed him not to come within a 5-km radius of the survivor's residence. Sengar, who is currently in jail, will not be immediately released as he is also serving a 10-year term in the custodial death case of the survivor's father. He is yet to get bail in that case.

The survivor was a minor when she was kidnapped and raped by Sengar in 2017.

Deploring the alleged ill treatment meted out to the survivor during her protest in Delhi, Rahul Gandhi said she is being punished for seeking justice. "Is such treatment of a gang-rape survivor appropriate? The fact that her perpetrator has been granted bail is extremely disappointing and shameful—especially when the survivor is being repeatedly harassed and is living under the shadow of fear," he said in a social media post. "Bail for rapists and treating survivors like criminals—what kind of justice is this?" he asked.

Survivor seeks relocation to a Congress-ruled state

Sources said the Unnao rape survivor told Rahul and Sonia Gandhi that she, along with her family, would like to relocate to a Congress-ruled state as they fear persecution in Uttar Pradesh. The Gandhis assured her family that they will do everything in their capacity to ensure that they get justice and security, sources said

We may be turning into a dead society, says Rahul

Deploring the ill-treatment meted out to the rape survivor during her protest in Delhi, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said she deserves respect, safety and justice. "We are not just becoming a dead economy—with such inhuman incidents, we are also turning into a dead society," he said

'BAHUBALI' LAUNCHES HEAVIEST SATELLITE ON ISRO RECORD

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) on Wednesday launched the heaviest satellite so far after its Launch Vehicle Mark-3 (LVM3)-M6 rocket lifted off with the 6.10-tonne BlueBird-6 Block-2 communication satellite of US-based AST SpaceMobile (AST and Science, LLC) and released it accurately in a in the 518.50 Km altitude circular Low Earth Orbit (LEO). The launch took place at 8.55 am and the satellite released in its orbit at 9.11 am in what ISRO scientists described as a "textbook launch".

The heaviest satellite that ISRO has launched so far was the 4.40-tonne Communication Satellite 03 – also known as GSAT-7R– in a Geosynchronous Transfer Orbit (GTO) on November 2, 2025 to provide the Indian Navy with secure, advanced multi-band maritime communication for ships, submarines and aircraft across the Indian Ocean Region. It replaced the older GSAT-7 (Rukmini) satellite.

The LVM3-M6/BlueBird Block-2 Mission was executed from the second launch pad of the Satish Dhawan Space Centre (SDSC) in Sriharikota. The launch was a commercial deal between ISRO's business arm NewSpace India Ltd (NSIL) and US-based AST SpaceMobile (AST and Science, LLC)

ISRO Chairman V Narayanan said this was the third commercial launch undertaken by ISRO using the LVM3 launcher and the first dedicated to a foreign customer for communication purposes. It was also the ninth launch mission of the LVM3 rocket – nicknamed "Bahubali" – all of which have been successful. LVM3-M4 carried India's historic Chandrayaan-3 lunar mission in July 2023, which recorded the country's first successful touchdown of the unmanned lunar spacecraft on August 23, 2023 – a feat which also recorded India as the first among nations to have landed near the lunar South Pole.

The LVM3-M6, also known as the Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicle (GSLV)-MkIII, is a three-stage rocket with a cryogenic engine designed and developed by ISRO's Liquid Propulsion Systems Centre. It uses two S200 solid rocket boosters to provide enormous thrust required for the lift-off with heavier payloads. P7

₹3,400 cr lies unclaimed in Karnataka bank accounts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mangaluru

AN estimated Rs 3,400 crore has been lying unclaimed in bank accounts across Karnataka for more than a decade, officials revealed at the District Consultative Committee (DCC) and District Level Review Committee (DLRC) meeting held here on Wednesday.

Addressing the meeting, Arun Kumar, Assistant General Manager, RBI Bengaluru Regional Office, said the Reserve Bank of India has been implementing a special statewide campaign under the Depositor Education and Awareness Fund (DEAF) for the past three months to reunite unclaimed deposits with their rightful owners. The campaign will continue until December 31, though depositors can approach banks to claim their money even after the deadline.

Kumar noted that nearly 80% of such accounts hold balances below Rs 10,000. Many of them are decades old, lack updated mobile numbers or KYC details, and in several cases, the original account holders are no longer alive. Updating mobile numbers and customer details has been taken up as the first step in the campaign. The unclaimed deposits include amounts in savings, fixed deposit and current accounts. Customers can check for unclaimed deposits through the UDGAM portal.

Dakshina Kannada Lead Bank District Chief Manager Kavitha Shetty said around Rs 140 crore remains unclaimed in nearly six lakh bank accounts in the district alone. So far, Rs 20 crore has been returned to depositors of 830 accounts under the DEAF scheme.

Dakshina Kannada MP Capt Brijesh Chowta stressed the need for a robust awareness drive, urging banks to proactively inform customers through pamphlets and direct outreach. He also expressed concern over delays in implementing welfare schemes and called for a clear action plan to strengthen delivery of flagship schemes such as PMJDY, PMJJBY, PMSBY and APY.

Poachers kill 3 blackbucks near C'magaluru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chikkamagaluru

CARCASSES of three blackbucks were found at Kallenahali village near Basur blackbucks protected area in Kadur zone of Chikkamagaluru Regional Forest Division on Monday. According to sources, the blackbucks aged around two were shot dead by poachers.

It is alleged that local forest officials got the autopsy of the dead animals done in a hurried manner on Tuesday evening to hush up the matter.

People of the village suspect foul play as the blackbucks were found dead close to the anti-poaching camp at Basur.

The villagers alleged that the forest officials did not register any case. They did not even inform the local media about the incident.

Meanwhile, wildlife activists urged Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre to order a high-level investigation.

DCFO Ramesh Babu told TNIE that the blackbucks were found dead on revenue land and the carcasses had bullet injuries. Veterinarians conducted the autopsy on Tuesday evening and the carcasses were burnt, he said. Investigations are on to trace the poachers.

No fresh leases allowed for mining in the Aravallis

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

THE Union Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change has directed states to completely ban new mining leases in the Aravalli Range, stretching from Delhi to Gujarat, to save them from unbridled mining activities.

The move follows reports that the Central Empowered Committee — established by the Supreme Court in 2002 and reconstituted in December 2023 — had contradicted a government-headed committee's recommendations on definition of the Aravallis.

The controversy centers around the Supreme Court accepting an Environment Ministry committee's proposal that landforms over 100 metres constitute "Aravalli hills".

Critics argue this new definition increases the range's vulnerability to mining. It is also believed the Forest Survey of India and the SC's amicus curiae had opposed this definition. Despite this, the Supreme Court accepted the ministry's 100-metre proposal on November 20.

The Ministry has now asked the Indian Council of Forestry Research and Education to identify additional no-mining zones and preparing a management plan for "sustainable mining.

Senior Congress leader Jairam Ramesh said the Centre "is misleading the public."

Call to relocate Kogilu homeless

Minority panel chief says GBA officials failed to follow due process in slum evictions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA State Minority Commission Chairman U Nisar Ahmed, who visited Fakeer Layout in Kogilu near Yelahanka on Wednesday, blamed Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) officials for failing to follow due process in slum evictions. He said GBA should have taken measures to prevent encroachment in the first place.

The chairman interacted with the victims and heard their pleas, and assured them that the Minority Commission would take steps to address them.

Ahmed told TNIE, "It is the responsibility of government departments to guard their properties. It first allows the shanties to mushroom. After they spend their hard-earned money on building homes, they reduce them to rubble." He wanted to know where the government departments that carried out the demolition drive, were all these years.

Minority Commission Chairman U Nisar Ahmed interacts with residents of Fakeer Layout on Wednesday | EXPRESS

Condemning the act, Ahmed said the timing of the demolition is such that the poor are freezing in the cold weather and demanded they be relocated. He termed the demolition of homes 'inhuman'. "I have asked the departments concerned to put up temporary shelters and accommodate them at community halls and provide them with food, water and medicine," Nisar Ahmed said.

The slum-dwellers, some of whom have erected temporary sheds next to their demolished homes, complained that a ganji kendra (gruel centre) is being set up at Hegde Nagar, which is far. They said GBA's marshals were pressurising them to take their belongings and shift to Hegde Nagar, and declared they would not shift.

Chairperson of the Karnataka State Commission for Protection of Child Rights, Shashidhar Kosambe, said a suo motu case was registered and he would be visiting the affected soon to take suitable action. He said he had discussed the demolition with GBA Chief Commissioner M Maheshwar Rao.

It is equipped with a live GPS tracking system, safety sensors and cameras. The control room can monitor where and for how long the machine is working," said Rao.

Madiwala Lake is being developed at a cost of Rs. 15 crore, and other development works including development of children's play area, installation of street lights, toilets, bridge work are in progress. The Madiwala Lake used to have a boating system. It has now stopped.

"A portion of the Madiwala Lake Bund Road work has already been completed and has been opened for vehicular traffic," he said.

IT WAS A YEAR OF PREVENTION AND POLICY SHIFTS

GAYATHRI M KURUP
@ Bengaluru

THE year 2025 marked a significant phase for Karnataka's public health sector, shaped by disease control achievements, preventive healthcare initiatives, food safety concerns, and a renewed focus on women and children.

One of the state's most notable public health achievements was recording zero dengue deaths in 2025, despite thousands of reported cases. The state also saw a nearly 80 per cent decline in dengue cases, compared to 2024. Health officials attributed this success to strengthened surveillance, early testing, timely treatment, and intensified vector-control measures.

However, Covid-19 resurfaced mid-year, with Karnataka reporting over 1,000 cases and a few deaths. The situation was managed without imposing new restrictions, relying instead on mandatory testing, enhanced surveillance, hospital preparedness, mask usage and improved hygiene practices.

Food safety emerged as a major concern, following reports of adulterated ghee being detected during inspections. The KMF Vigilance Wing and Central Crime Branch busted fake Nandini ghee being mixed with non-dairy fats circulated in the market, triggering public concern, given the brand's trusted and widespread use.

Separately, a viral video debate linking egg consumption to cancer sparked debate, with health experts and officials clarifying that there is no scientific evidence to support such claims, leading to sending egg samples once again as a precautionary measure.

Women's health received focused attention when Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao announced a targeted cervical cancer immunisation drive in Kalyana Karnataka. Under the initiative, all 14-year-old girls in five districts were to be vaccinated free of cost, with the programme set to be conducted annually.

A major decoy operation was conducted by Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh near the joint border, exposing an illegal sex determination network operating across the two states. The operation was led by Karnataka PCPNDT State Nodal Officer Dr Vivek Dorai, in collaboration with Andhra Pradesh PCPNDT State Nodal Officer Dr KVNS Anil Kumar.

Another significant development was the announcement of paid menstrual leave for women aged 18 to 52, granting 12 days of menstrual leave annually. With this move, Karnataka became the first Indian state to introduce a formal and comprehensive policy on paid menstrual leave, marking a major step in recognising menstrual health as a workplace issue.

Preventive healthcare was further strengthened through the statewide expansion of the Gruha Arogya scheme, which provides door-to-door screening for non-communicable diseases such as diabetes and hypertension among adults above 30 years, with the focus on early detection and community-based healthcare.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AIMING to address public concerns and resolve issues on ground, Bengaluru South City Corporation Commissioner K N Ramesh undertook a 3-km walk from Brigade Millennium to Yelachenahalli Metro Station on Wednesday and interacted with citizens directly. Local MLA M Krishnappa too joined the commissioner.

Hundreds of residents as well as resident welfare associations (RWAs) from RBI Layout, Ishwara Layout, Sadanandappa Layout and Ganapathipura submitted their grievances to Ramesh. Hotels encroaching upon footpaths were fined Rs 5,000 on the spot, and the commissioner ordered penal action against those dumping construction materials on footpaths and directed the immediate removal of unauthorised advertisement boards.

He also ordered immediate asphalting (blacktopping) in Ishwara Layout and RBI Layout, where roads have not been asphalted since 2015. He told residents that widening of Chunchaghatta Road would be taken up to ease traffic congestion.

Officials were given timelines for desilting drains in Sadanandappa Layout, addressing underground drainage issues in Bireeshwara Nagar and repairing BWSSB pipelines. A survey was ordered to identify encroachments in Ganapathipura Lake and near Manipal Hospital on Kanakapura Road. Authorities were instructed to verify setback violations by leading car showrooms.

Can health reforms pave the way for UHC rollout in 2026?

KARNATAKA stands at a pivotal moment. In 2025, the government began decentralizing specialist care: a three-year plan links each district hospital with new trauma, cardiac and cancer units, bringing advanced treatment closer to remote communities.

Maternal health received urgent attention. After alarming reports of deaths in childbirth, Karnataka launched an ambitious "zero maternal mortality" campaign, equipping every hospital with obstetric emergency kits, nutrition/Vatsalya packs, and incentives, and stationing specialist obstetricians in high-risk taluks.

Preventive care was expanded through the Gruha Arogya programme, which reaches homes to screen adults for hypertension, diabetes, and other chronic diseases, and through new mobile health units that provide basic care in remote and underserved villages.

The government has redefined primary care as the central organizing principle and introduced evidence-based policies that originate at the grassroots level. New guidelines have been issued for mapping healthcare facilities, with strict criteria for upgrading Primary Health Centres (PHCs) to Community Health Centres (CHCs) based on factors such as distance, excessive travel times, or service gaps. Additionally, PHCs will be strengthened by deploying more medical officers to enhance service delivery.

Instead of program-by-program fixes, system-wide reforms were evident in 2025; extending the Arogya Sanjeevini cashless insurance scheme to all state employees, including contract workers.

A unified digital backbone was also rolled out. Hospital management systems are being installed at every district, taluk, and community centre, and a new NG-112 emergency network now coordinates about 1,270 ambulances for faster referrals.

On the regulatory side, Karnataka passed a tough amendment to the Drugs and Cosmetics Act to curb manufacture and sale of counterfeit medicines. It phased out in-hospital Jan Aushadhi outlets to facilitate supply of essential drugs free of cost through public pharmacies.

The government even innovated on social determinants. Karnataka became the first state to mandate paid menstrual leave for women workers. Under its Brain Health Initiative, more than a quarter of a million people were screened for neurological or mental disorders (32,630 treated), while district-level mental wellness centres were established.

Overall, Karnataka integrated evidence and equity into its health system, shifting governance focus from merely expanding programmes to prioritizing people's needs. However, Karnataka faces growing risks from chronic illnesses and care gaps. For instance, the maternal mortality ratio of 57 per 100,000 is the highest in South India, a stark reminder of health inequity between rural and urban areas.

Vision 2026

Having the distinction of being the first state to pilot Universal Health Coverage (UHC), Karnataka's reforms are fuelled towards achieving the goal of health for everyone. The vehicle for this is a life course approach to health by creating policies and strengthening interventions that address health from before birth to old age. Combining the primary healthcare and Life Course approaches to health can take transformative steps towards realizing UHC. The initial steps have been taken -- through the 'zero mortality' campaign, preventive adult care, Gruha Arogya, and enhanced insurance cover.

To reduce inequalities and enhance societal contribution, Karnataka's integration of social and healthcare services across all age groups can serve as a role model for other states. The government can consolidate and strengthen these initiatives by integrating them and creating a new ministry for public health that addresses both social and lifestyle determinants, a role currently held by the state's development commissioner.

Call for action

A well-connected, well-staffed PHC with a fully functional continuum of care, including referrals, follow-ups, health exams, and chronic disease management could be the first step towards realizing UHC in 2026.

Reforms have paved the way. Now, political will is needed to achieve sustainable, life-course care in 2026. If realized, Karnataka's model has the potential to offer global lessons in realizing UHC.

Hologram crunch puts brakes on emission checks

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

KARNATAKA'S vehicle emission monitoring system has all but collapsed, with over 400 emission checking centres shut across the state, after the Transport department failed to supply hologram stickers for nearly a month. Most of the closed centres are attached to petrol bunks, crippling routine emission testing and leaving thousands of motorists stranded without valid certificates, and vulnerable to penalties.

Industry representatives say it is a forced closure of Pollution Under Control (PUC) centres. "We had to keep shutters down for the past eight days," said BR Ravindranath, former president of the Karnataka State Petroleum Dealers' Association. "Of the 2600 PUC centres in the state, a majority are now non-functional. Without hologram stickers, certificates cannot be issued." The crisis is due to a delay in the procurement and distribution of security holograms, a mandatory requirement meant to prevent forgery. The delay has triggered a chain reaction -- centres cannot operate, vehicle owners cannot comply with the law, and enforcement agencies are policing a rule the government itself has made impossible to follow.

The disruption comes at a time when the state is pushing for cleaner mobility and stricter emission norms. The impasse exposes administrative bottlenecks and poor coordination within the Transport department. One officer said on condition of anonymity, "We have written to the government but they have not cleared it for about two months, citing one reason or other. Now they have sent it to the Finance department and no one knows how long it will take. For about a month we distributed 5 lakh hologram stickers as an emergency measure but now we cannot continue that also."

There were complaints that some unscrupulous persons were using fake holograms and continuing to run the emission centres. Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy was not available for comment. With no clear timeline for resolution, pressure is mounting on the government to immediately restore supplies.

Top cop inspects NY prep on CBD roads

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CITY Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh conducted an extensive field inspection on Wednesday evening along the MG Road-Brigade Road corridor, one of the city's key celebration zones, to review the security arrangements and crowd management measures put in place for Christmas and New Year festivities.

During the inspection, Singh reviewed CCTV coverage and live monitoring arrangements, deployment of AI-based crowd movement analysis systems, barricading and access-control layouts, emergency response and evacuation protocols. These measures are intended to enable real-time monitoring, early identification of crowd pressure points, and swift intervention when required.

"To realistically assess crowd behaviour, field visits were deliberately planned during Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, as these days closely mirror the scale and nature of crowds expected on New Year's Eve. Citizens are urged to cooperate with the police, follow advisories, and celebrate in a responsible manner to ensure that everyone can welcome the New Year joyfully and without untoward incident," the commissioner told the media.

"We went around the central business district in view of the preparations for the new year bandobast. Our officers are already doing it and we are trying to analyse and review whatever has been done and if any more requirements are there, we will look into it. It is done so that the new year is celebrated peacefully. Main emphasis is on women safety and also crowd and traffic control. All this is being done to keep the city safe," Singh told TNIE. The commissioner was accompanied by other IPS officers working in the city police commissionerate.

Former PM and Rajya Sabha MP HD Deve Gowda addresses the media in Bengaluru on Wednesday | EXPRESS

FORMER Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda launched a sharp attack on the Karnataka government, saying he has been made a party to a writ petition filed in the Supreme Court in connection with the Bengaluru-Mysuru Infrastructure Corridor (BMIC/NICE) project. Addressing the media at the JDS state office in Bengaluru, Gowda said the petition has named the State Government, a group of farmers and himself as respondents.

Defending the decisions taken during his tenure as CM, Gowda, a Rajya Sabha member, pointed out that the project had received the Finance Department's approval at the time. "When this agreement was signed, Siddaramaiah was the Finance Minister. He knows every detail of the MoU and the concurrence given," he said.

Gowda said the project covered four districts, including Bengaluru, Mandya and Mysuru, and envisaged concrete roads and five townships.

Expressing anguish, he said that even at his age he is being forced to fight court battles and pay lawyers' fees. He alleged that around Rs 55 lakh is being paid to legal consultants in the NICE matter, questioning the need for appointing an additional consultant despite the presence of the Advocate General and government legal officers. "I still have the determination and strength to fight," Gowda said, widening his criticism to what he described as poor governance.

He alleged that while lakhs of government posts remain vacant, more than 1 lakh workers are employed on contract. Referring to Victoria Hospital, he said the scale of contractual employment was there for all to see. He also took a swipe at the Chief Minister's Office, noting that seven or eight individuals function with cabinet rank.

Gowda said blaming the Centre for every problem served no purpose. Recalling his own experience, he said even when Siddaramaiah was Finance Minister and Dr Manmohan Singh headed the Centre's finance ministry, demands such as waiver of penal interest on farmers' loans were not accepted.

He said JDS would hold regional conventions in Hassan and Bagalkot between January 23 and 25, ahead of the joint session of Parliament, to highlight what he termed the failures of the Congress State Government.

Responding to Congress criticism over the renaming of MGNREGA, Gowda said he knew well how much respect the Congress had actually shown to Mahatma Gandhi when it was in power, dismissing the protests as political posturing.

K'taka HC quashes land acquisition for project in Thalaghattapura

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court quashed the notification issued for the acquisition of one acre for the Bengaluru-Mysuru Infrastructure Corridor (BMIC) project at Thalaghattapura in Bengaluru South taluk, as no award has been passed for more than 17 years after the final notification issued by the Karnataka Industrial Area Development Board (KIADB).

"The preliminary notification is of the year 2006, the final notification is of the year 2008, and no award has been passed for more than 17 years after the final notification. The respondents have not offered any acceptable explanation. The KIADB cannot indefinitely keep the petitioner's property under acquisition without concluding proceedings, and such extraordinary dormancy defeats the statute and vitiates the acquisition," Justice KS Hemalekha observed.

The court made these observations while allowing the petition filed by Rathna S Reddy, a resident of Yelachenahalli in the city, questioning the acquisition of her land bearing Sy. No. 41/5, measuring 1 acre, situated at Thalaghattapura in Uttarahalli Hobli of Bengaluru South Taluk, under the provisions of the Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Act, 1965. The preliminary notification was issued in 2006, and the final notification in 2008. It was stated in the petition that although nearly 17 years have lapsed since the issuance of the final notification, no award has been passed by the acquiring authority, nor has any possession been taken in accordance with law and therefore, the petitioner moved the high court.

She has also relied on the endorsement dated June 5, 2025, issued by the office of the BMICP, which categorically states that no ramp, interchange, link alignment, or BMICP facility exists or is proposed upon the land in question and, consequently, that the land is not required for BMICP.

It is further averred in her petition that an affidavit filed by the Government of Karnataka before the Apex Court in Contempt Petition, shows that 554 acres of excess land had already been handed over to the concessionaire, and that no further land would be delivered.

Deputy CM DK Shivakumar addresses the media in New Delhi on Wednesday

DKS gets no audience with Rahul, Karnataka power tussle continues

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

WITH Chief Minister Siddaramaiah making it clear that Rahul Gandhi will take a call on any possible leadership change in Karnataka, and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar yet to get an audience with the Rae Bareli MP, there seems to be no end to the talk of a change of guard in the political corridors.

Speaking to media persons in New Delhi on Wednesday, Shivakumar said that the issue of leadership change was only a media creation. "There is no such discussion either in the party or in the government. The discussion is happening only in the media," Shivakumar said, when asked about the possible change of guard after Sankranti.

Shivakumar, who was in Delhi for two days to meet Union Ministers over pending irrigation and other development projects concerning the state, did not meet Congress' top brass leaders. "I am not meeting the high command leaders this time. Rahul Gandhi just returned yesterday, and I would not like to disturb him," Shivakumar, who is also the Karnataka Congress chief, said.

On a possible cabinet reshuffle, the Deputy CM said, "Ask the CM, he is the suitable person to answer this question."

On whether he wishes to continue as Drputy CM, he said that since he had toiled for the Congress for the last 45 years, he would like to remain as a party worker rather than acquire power and position. "I have worked incessantly for the party since 1980. I would like to remain a party worker," Shivakumar said.

Asked if there was a power-sharing agreement, he said, "I can't disclose what transpired between us. We worked together and formed the government. Every party worker has worked hard for the party. The high command has given us freedom, and our government is working as a team. It is not just about Shivakumar or Siddaramaiah... all MLAs and party workers have sacrificed to bring the party to power."

On Siddaramaiah's supporters planning to hold a massive AHINDA rally in Mysuru, Shivakumar wished them good luck, albeit with sarcasm.

Meanwhile, former cooperation minister KN Rajanna expressed confidence in making a comeback into the cabinet if Siddaramaiah rejigged his ministry.

"Siddaramaiah had sought permission two months ago, but it got delayed due to a change in leadership issue. Rahul Gandhi is going to Europe after the Congress Working Committee meeting on December 27. Siddaramaiah will get the nod to reshuffle his cabinet if he gets an appointment with Rahul. I have delivered the goods as the cooperation minister by bringing in several reforms," Rajanna said.

'PRIYANKA'S MOTTO IS TO MAKE RAHUL PM'

On a few Congress leaders rallying behind Wayanad MP Priyanka Gandhi as the Congress' PM candidate, Deputy CM DK Shivakumar said that she supports his brother Rahul Gandhi for the post. "I don't have information on this. The party is led by AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, Rahul Gandhi, and Sonia Gandhi. We will follow the decisions they take. Discipline is important in the party... there should be no confusion. Rahul has taken over the mantle at a difficult time and organised the Bharat Jodo Yatra from Kanniyakumari to Kashmir. Priyanka's motto is to make Rahul the PM," he said.

AHINDA conference in Mysuru to back Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

AMID the ongoing leadership tussle in the Congress government, AHINDA (a Kannada acronym for minorities, backward classes and Dalits) communities have decided to organise a massive conference in Mysuru on January 25 to urge the party high command not to remove Chief Minister Siddaramaiah from office.

The conference will be held on the Karnataka Exhibition Grounds in Mysuru.

Speaking at a meeting organised by AHINDA Mysuru and the Karnataka State Backward Communities Awareness Forum at a private hotel in Mysuru on Wednesday, forum president K Shivaram said that Siddaramaiah is the voice of the AHINDA communities.

"Vested interests and dominant communities are trying to dethrone Siddaramaiah as CM. He stands like a wall against communalism and RSS activities in the state. Dominant communities are opposing the implementation of the caste census, which benefits AHINDA communities. The Congress high command must realise that 65-70% of AHINDA communities form the Congress vote bank across the country. The party will lose AHINDA support if Siddaramaiah is removed," he said.

Shivaram pointed out that Karnataka has had 23 CMs so far, but only a handful have been from AHINDA communities. "AHINDA communities have faced injustice for centuries. We must fight for our rights and convey our message to the Congress high command through this conference. Karnataka should not become another Rajasthan due to leadership or seat-sharing tussles. This conference is not against any leader, but is meant to express AHINDA communities' support for CM Siddaramaiah and to assert our rights," he added.

Former director Rangayana H. Janardhan (Janni) said the AHINDA communities have a rich history. "There are conspiracies to distort the country's history and change the Constitution. We should not allow Karnataka to become like Bihar, Gujarat or Rajasthan. Siddaramaiah understands the problems of the poor. The country will be ruined if it is run by leaders who prioritise wealth, power and caste. The CM has strong moral values and a genuine commitment to the welfare of the poor," he said.

Uppara community leader Yogesh said there was no seat-sharing agreement within the Congress in 2023.

Lack of devpt in N K'taka is Siddu's failure: Ashoka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

LEADER of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka accused the Congress government of neglecting the development of the North Karnataka region. Speaking to media persons in Bengaluru, Ashoka said during the recent Assembly session, even Congress MLAs from that region criticised the State Government, and some even demanded a separate state, as there is no development in the region. "If North Karnataka is not developed even after Siddaramaiah presented record 16 state budgets, that is his failure. It is Siddaramaiah's failure. He should allow someone else to present the next budget," the BJP MLA said.

Ashoka said they took up several issues during the recent winter session in Belagavi.

He accused Speaker UT Khader of not giving time for discussion before passing the Bill against hate speech. The Bill was passed when the opposition members were in the well of the House, and the LoP had not even completed speaking on the Bill, he said.

'VEERAPPAN WAS BETTER THAN THIS GOVT'

Leader of Opposition R Ashoka said that human-wildlife conflict has increased significantly. In the last two-and-a-half years, over 206 elephants have died. Forest brigand Veerappan seems to be better compared to this government, he said and added that Veerappan had killed 500 elephants in 25 years compared to 206 elephants in two-and-a-half years.

Town panchayat elections

State BJP president BY Vijayendra said BJP's resounding victory in the four Urban Local Body (Town Panchayat) elections in Bajape, Kinnigoli, Manki and Bashettihalli across the Bhatkal, Moodbidre and Doddaballapura Assembly constituencies, along with the two ward by-elections in Doddaballapura and Turvihala, reflects the people's clear rejection of the Congress government's failures and misgovernance in Karnataka. Even in Bhatkal, voters rejected the ruling party, underscoring the strong anti-incumbency sentiment across the State, he stated on social media platform 'X'.

"Through these results, the people of Karnataka have once again reaffirmed their faith in the Viksit Bharat vision laid down by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, choosing development, stability and principled governance," he stated.

The BJP leader further said the results clearly indicate the shifting political mood in Karnataka and the growing momentum in favour of the BJP.

Chief Whip of the Opposition in the Council N Ravi Kumar said that the impressive performance of the BJP in the elections to local bodies is a clear indication that the people are angry and disillusioned about the Congress government due to its miserable performance.

VB-G RAM G Act unconstitutional, says Priyank Kharge

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Minister for IT/BT and Rural Development & Panchayat Raj Priyank Kharge on Wednesday said that the VB-G RAM G Act, 2025, is anti-poor, anti-farmer and unconstitutional.

"There is no definition of what 'Viksit Bharat' actually means, yet sweeping powers are handed to the Centre at the cost of workers, panchayats and states. Politically, socially, legally and morally, this is not something we can accept," the minister stated.

Kharge chaired a national roundtable against the VB-GRAM G Act in New Delhi with over 80 participants, including civil rights groups, economists, senior lawyers, academics, activists, NGOs, and NREGA workers. The roundtable resolved to work on multiple fronts, to step up efforts to explain the law clearly on the ground, counter misinformation, and build public awareness about how the new Act weakens livelihoods and also to examine constitutional violations by the new legislation, said a statement issued by the minister's office.

The minister stated that the MGNREGA was not merely a welfare programme but a guarantee that gave rural families dignity, security, and confidence to stay in their villages. "From starving the scheme of funds to delaying payments and now rewriting the law itself, the BJP has tried to kill MGNREGA slowly and steadily for over a decade. Giving the Centre the power to reject panchayat plans and control allocations is a direct attempt to finish the scheme by design," the minister said.

Kharge stated that they will work from villages to courts, from public mobilisation to legal action for repealing the Act and restoring the MGNREGA.

Minister for Food and Civil Supplies KH Muniyappa checks out the stalls organised to mark National Consumers Day in Cubbon Park, Bengaluru, on Wednesday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Why rename? Launch a new programme after Vajpayee, Muniyappa tells Union Govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Minister for Food and Civil Supplies and Consumer Affairs KH Muniyappa criticised the BJP and the Union Government for plans to rename the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MNREGA) to Viksit Bharat Guarantee for Rozgar and Ajeevika Mission (Gramin) VB-G RAM G.

Speaking at the National Consumers Day event organised by the Department of Food and Civil Supplies, Consumer Affairs and Department of Legal Metrology at Cubbon Park in Bengaluru on Wednesday, he said, "Mahatma Gandhi's thoughts were progressive and we must remember him on this day. We are not doing a favour by serving the customer... he is doing us a favour by giving us an opportunity to do so."

He further questioned, "How many BJP leaders bow in front of the idol of Lord Ram? I wake up early in the morning to bow in front of Lord Ram. We must worship him in our minds and hearts. In the past 11 years, they have been renaming the schemes and programmes that were launched by the Congress earlier. Late PM Atal Bihari Vajpayee was a good leader, he was a man who everyone admired across the party lines. Why don't they launch a programme in his name instead of changing the names of old programmes? We will happily accept if they launch any new programme in Vajpayee's name."

LoP hits out at Cong govt over 'missing' Gruha Lakshmi funds

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

IN a fresh escalation of the Gruha Lakshmi payment distribution fiasco, LoP in Assembly R Ashoka has written to the Principal Secretary of the Finance Department seeking an explanation on why thousands of millions of beneficiaries were not paid the stipend amount for February and March 2025.

This letter comes after Women and Child Development Minister Laxmi Hebbalkar's candid acceptance in the Assembly about week ago that the payments scheduled to be paid to each beneficiary of Rs 2000, had not been paid. This has had the BJP legislators resorting to a walkout in protest and they also accused the government of serious financial mismanagement.

Ashoka wants a full breakdown of what happened to the funds earmarked in the 2024-25 budget for these installments, questioning if fiscal woes or administrative blunders derailed distributions into the 2025-26 fiscal year.

"The money was allocated in the budget, where did it disappear?" Ashoka reportedly thundered in the letter, echoing BJP's broader critique that the Congress-led Siddaramaiah government's flagship guarantee schemes are crumbling under poor execution.

He also called for a comprehensive audit of all payouts since the scheme's launch 2.5 years ago, affecting over 1.2 crore eligible women heads of households across the state.

Launched in 2023 as a cornerstone of Congress's welfare push, Gruha Lakshmi aims to empower women from below-poverty-line and Antyodaya families with monthly financial aid to boost economic independence and household stability.

Hebbalkar, in her December 18 apology on the Assembly floor, blamed the lapse amount to about Rs 5000 crore on "unintentional oversight" and promised swift rectification, but Ashoka dismissed it as "inadequate," insisting on accountability to restore trust among beneficiaries.

Three members of a family lost their lives and two others sustained serious injuries in a road accident on the Ballari–Siruguppa state highway near Devinagar Camp in Ballari district on Wednesday morning. The victims were identified as Prasad Rao (45) and two women from the same family.

Edu reforms: Big changes raise bigger questions

RASHMI PATIL @ Bengaluru

THE Education sector in Karnataka has seen some major changes in 2025, sparking criticisms, debates and discussions around various topics from key stakeholders, including student organisations, educationists and associations in private as well as government schools. As the year comes to an end, it is time for us to pause and reflect upon these changes and the impact they will have on children and their future. One of the important changes is the upgradation of 700 KPS magnet schools by merging government schools within one to five kilometer range. Citing it as a violation of Para 3 of The Right to Education Act, 2009, which mandates free and compulsory education for children aged 6 to 14 years in a neighborhood school, student organisations and educationists criticised the bureaucracy and Minister for School Education and Literacy Madhu Bangarappa.

Reducing pass marks from 35 to 33 for PUC students and 30 for SSLC students was another major announcement. Bangarappa stated it was decided after taking public opinion and the recommendations of the Karnataka Administrative Reforms Commission into consideration. He also said this will help children in Karnataka secure more jobs in the future, as other states have lower pass marks. Professors in higher education institutions fear that this decision would lower the knowledge and competency levels of students who aspire to pursue higher education.

Meanwhile, the 1000-page report on the State Education Policy submitted by a panel headed by Professor Sukhdeo Thorat in August is yet to be made public. It was only recently that Higher Education Minister Dr MC Sudhakar announced the formation of a review committee to review the report and submit recommendations.

Another major development is the push for English medium in government schools. In 2018-19, the HD Kumaraswamy government started English as a medium of instruction in 1000 government schools.

This year, more than 4,000 schools were added to the list. However, experts have highlighted the lack of trained English teachers in these schools. Unable to learn effectively neither in Kannada nor English, children are left in a lurch. Language should become a tool for communication, not a barrier to improving cognitive abilities of children.

Education in India: K'taka at heart of the debate

REFLECTION of Indian educational reforms indicates a widening gap between ambition and reality. While national and state education policies speak the language of flexibility, skills and innovation in public universities across the country that continue to struggle with shrinking resources and expanding responsibilities. Karnataka, projected as an education hub, captures this paradox more vividly when compared with many states.

The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 has made reforms in education, urging multidisciplinary learning, credit flexibility, skill integration, and global competitiveness. However, the real challenge today is not policy intent but institutional capacity. Public universities are struggling to implement sweeping reforms and facing chronic shortage of funds, faculty and infrastructure.

Public universities remain the primary access points for first-generation learners in India, especially children of marginal farmers, petty traders, daily wage labourers and rural households. Public universities educate lakhs of such students in Karnataka, often serving as the only affordable pathway to higher education. In private and deemed universities, funding constraints are minimal whereas public institutions carry a heavy social responsibility under severe financial stress.

One of the critical issues among public universities is the bifurcation and trifurcation of well-established universities. While intended to improve regional access, these structural reorganisations have often fragmented financial resources, weakened academic ecosystems, and created acute shortage of teaching faculty.

Further, the clustering of a few colleges from parent universities has damaged public university stability, reduced internal revenue and disrupted academic continuity.

ASHOK D HANJAGI
Senior Professor & Director, PMEB, Bangalore University

The challenges have extended far beyond classrooms, especially campuses. Maintaining vast university campuses has become increasingly difficult. Routine but essential activities like maintenance of sophisticated equipment, campus cleanliness, cleaning of washrooms and upkeep of hostels, etc are now major financial burdens. Public universities must meet recurring expenditure for food, drinking water, electricity, internet connectivity, security and sanitation, while paying salaries to a large number of non-teaching staff and security personnel necessary to manage vast campuses.

Added to this are statutory and social responsibilities where universities are required to disburse fellowships or scholarships to SC/ST students and PhD scholars, enabling them to meet academic and living expenses. These commitments are vital for equity and inclusion; delayed reimbursements and inadequate allocations place additional strain on institutional finances.

Public universities also face challenges rarely acknowledged in policy discussions. Unregulated public entry into campuses, debris and waste dumping, damage to green spaces, and disruption of academic environments have become recurring concerns. Establishing and maintaining wastewater treatment plants, solid waste management systems, and environmentally sustainable campuses require substantial investment, which most public universities struggle to mobilise.

Yet, public universities continue to deliver. In Karnataka, they play a vital role in teacher education, basic sciences, social sciences, earth sciences studies, and emerging interdisciplinary domains. Their engagement with local and regional challenges and issues remains far deeper than what conventional rankings capture.

Leaner, flexible systems

Looking ahead, the higher education system must rethink how learning time is structured. As India enters a new academic year, universities should seriously consider leaner, more flexible academic frameworks such as 70-80 credit postgraduate programmes and 120 credit undergraduate programmes. This would enable students to complete formal classroom learning within 3-3.5 hours a day, freeing time for part-time work under "earn while you learn" models, internships, apprenticeships, additional skill-based or vocational courses, and even parallel degree opportunities.

Higher education cannot remain confined to classrooms from morning to evening. Students must gain greater exposure to industry, research organisations, startups, and community-based work. Internships and apprenticeships should become integral, credit-linked components of every programme. The objective must be to make students job-ready, adaptable and confident.

State-level policies play a decisive role in enabling this transition. The Karnataka State Education Policy rightly emphasises inclusivity, regional relevance, multilingual education, and local knowledge systems. However, autonomy must be matched with adequate funding, administrative flexibility, and timely recruitment. Over-regulation combined with under-support risks weakening the very institutions expected to deliver reform.

At the heart of the system are teachers. Faculty members in public universities across India, especially in Karnataka, have held the system together. They teach large classes, mentor first-generation learners, redesign curricula, guide research, and manage administrative responsibilities, often with limited support. No reform can succeed without sustained investment in faculty recruitment, professional development and academic freedom.

As the year closes, one conclusion is that public universities and schools should be supported to promote social mobility, democratic values, skilled workforce and inclusive development, and should not merely be a competitive sector. Karnataka's public universities demonstrate that even under severe constraints, institutions can uphold access, quality and social purpose. The real test of India's education reform will lie not in elite success stories, but in how effectively public universities are strengthened to serve those who depend on them the most.

BIKLA SHIVA MURDER

Denied advance bail by Spl Court, Byrathi Basavaraj moves HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FORMER minister and BJP MLA Byrathi Basavaraj on Wednesday moved the Karnataka High Court, seeking anticipatory bail in the Bikla Shiva murder case. The move comes a day after the special court for trial of criminal cases against sitting and former MPs/MLAs in the city rejected his anticipatory bail petition.

After considering the arguments of both sides, the special court had said that the HC, while dismissing the writ petition of Byrathi, observed that custodial interrogation is a legal option available to the investigating agency, and there is no reason to deny such exercise of power. Hence, by appreciating the said aspects, the petitioner has not made out grounds for admission to anticipatory bail, the special court had observed.

On Friday, the HC rejected the anticipatory bail petition of Basavaraj while quashing the order invoking the provisions of Karnataka Control of Organised Crime Act (KCOCA) in the crime. While doing so, the HC had granted him liberty to approach the special court for anticipatory bail.

Byrathi, who is absconding now, said in the petition filed in the HC that the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) filed the charge sheet on December 22 against 18 accused and left him out. The special court, taking an erroneous view of the facts and circumstances of the case, rejected the advance bail petition filed by him on Tuesday. Also, the persons having political vengeance against him have enacted the incident for political gain, he said.

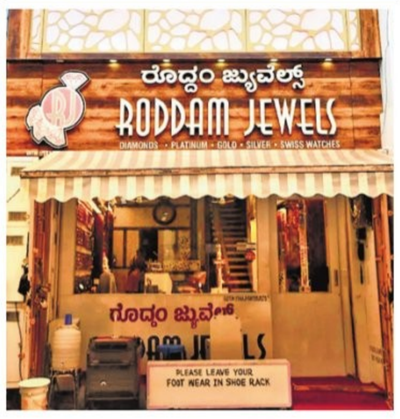
Kerala SIT raids Ballari jeweller

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

SABARIMALA GOLD THEFT



Roddam Jewels in Ballari, where a Kerala SIT conducted a search operation on Wednesday

THE Kerala Special Investigation Team (SIT) on Wednesday carried out a major raid at Roddam Jewels in Ballari, intensifying the probe into the high-profile theft of 4.5 kg of gold from the Sabarimala Ayyappa Temple. A five-member SIT team sealed the premises and conducted a thorough search, examining records and questioning staff members.

Govardhan, the owner of Roddam Jewels, had previously been arrested in connection with the case. The SIT officials allege that he had purchased around 4,500 grams of the stolen gold, further implicating local jewellers in the investigation.

The case dates back to 2019, when Unnikrishnan, who was entrusted with gold-plating the guardian idols at the temple, returned them with a noticeable discrepancy in the gold weight. This discrepancy triggered a detailed investigation, which has now widened to include local jewellery shops suspected of involvement.

During Wednesday's operation, the SIT meticulously scrutinised the shop's financial records and stock registers, while over 10 employees were questioned to ascertain the flow of the allegedly stolen gold.

Authorities have also extended the probe to Govardhan's residence, seizing documents and other potential evidence to strengthen the ongoing case and its second raid conducted on Roddam Jewels after Govardhan was arrested.

Sources in the Police Department said the investigation is being conducted as per court directions and is aimed at uncovering the entire chain of the gold theft.

This marks the second raid on Roddam Jewels. The shop remained closed throughout the operation, and officials stated that further actions could follow based on the evidence collected. The SIT's intensified focus on Ballari jewellers comes amid growing public scrutiny of the temple theft, which has drawn widespread attention across Kerala.

Consumer dispute redressal up five-fold

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA State Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission president Justice TG Shivashankaregowda on Wednesday said that despite staff shortages in District Consumer Disputes Redressal Commissions (DCRDC) across the state, they have been able to dispose 250-300 cases every month as against 50 cases a month previously. Still around 11,000 cases related to consumer disputes are pending in the state commission at present, he said.

Justice Shivashankaregowda was speaking at the National Consumer Rights Day event organised by the departments of food and civil supplies, consumer affairs and legal metrology in Bengaluru on Wednesday. "Out of the total 34 commissions at the district level, only 15 have presidents and members to dispose of the cases. Many officials have left their posts as their terms have ended. In the rest of the commissions, incharge heads and members are disposing of the cases," he said.

"There is a shortage of women members in five of the commissions and around 15 commissions have an extreme shortage of members. In simple words, the commissions are working with 50% staff strength. Until April, only 50 cases were disposed of every month. Now we are disposing of 250-300 cases a month by working from 10.30am to 6pm. However, there are still 11,000 cases pending. We are trying to dispose of the cases at the earliest," said Justice Shivashankaregowda.

On cases of cyber fraud, he said, "According to the cyber crime department, there is only a 25% (money) recovery rate in Karnataka. There is a lower success rate here. Consumers must be alert when they respond to calls and messages from unknown numbers."

11 child traffickers arrested in TG, 10 infants rescued

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

THE Miyapur police, along with the Special Operations Team, Shamshabad, arrested 11 members of an interstate human trafficking gang and rescued two infants, both aged 10 days in Telangana.

Police said the accused allegedly purchased babies for amounts ranging between Rs 3 lakh and Rs 4 lakh and sold them for Rs 6 lakh to Rs 7 lakh. The arrested accused were identified as Vemula Babu Reddy (49), Venkipally Gangadhar Reddy (39), Daram Laxmi (28), Ram Hari Roy (37), Kummari Harsha Roy (31), Sangeeta Debi (33), Gudepu Sujatha (40), Suraboina Anuradha (55), Esarapu Jyothi (35), V Madhavi (28) and Pothula Sobha (44).

Madhapur DCP Ritiraj said that Gangadhar Reddy and Harsha Roy were also accused in the Srushti baby-selling racket and had resumed their activities after securing bail. One of the rescued infants was from Ahmedabad in Gujarat, while the other was from Siddipet district. Police said the gang targeted vulnerable families, identified pregnant women, and entered into illegal agreements for the sale of newborns.

According to the DCP, the accused operated as an organised network. They allegedly identified poor families across different parts of the country who were unable to meet basic needs and induced them to sell their infants by offering money. The babies were then sold to affluent childless couples through a chain of middlemen.

Vemula Babu Reddy, a resident of Kapra, works as an IVF agent. He was previously arrested in cases registered by the Alwal police and the Devarakonda police in Suryapet district.

Gangadhar Reddy, a native of East Godavari district, has reportedly been involved in 18 cases across the Cyberabad, Rachakonda and Hyderabad police commissionerates.

RIVER-LINKING PROJECT

DKS appeals to Centre for 40-45tmcft of water

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Wednesday said he has appealed to the Centre to allocate at least 40-45 tmcft of water to Karnataka in the river linking project.

"We have appealed for 40-45 tmcft of water for the state and asked the Centre to release an additional 5 tmcft of water to the Bhima river basin," he told reporters in Delhi. He took part in the 24th meeting of the National Water Development Authority convened by the Jal Shakti ministry, that discussed linking Godavari with Cauvery, and Bedthi with Varada.

He said in the first phase of the Godavari-Cauvery river linking project with a capacity of 148tmcft, Karnataka has been allocated only 15.90tmcft. "We told the Centre the allocation is not adequate. Godavari is far away, let's see how they decide on the usage," he said to a query. "Bedthi and Varada rivers are within the state and our allocation is 18.50tmcft. Total allocation is 34.40tmcft. We have given the go-ahead for a DPR for the Bedthi-Varada river linking. The project would cost Rs 10,000 crore, the Centre will bear 90 per cent and state will bear 10 per cent," he explained.

On opposition to the Bedthi-Varada project, he said, "When the Centre is investing 90 per cent of Rs 10,000 crore and the state is investing only Rs 1,000 crore, how can we say no to the project? We have to submit documents to the Centre, and need to determine how much forest land is needed."

Metro and RRTS projects

Shivakumar said he met Union Urban Development Minister Manohar Lal Khattar on Tuesday and discussed pending projects. "We requested approval of cost escalation of Metro Phase 2. The DPR was prepared 15 years ago when the cost was Rs 26,000crore, now cost is Rs 40,000 crore," he said. He said a proposal was submitted for approval of Phase 3A of the Metro from Sarjapur to Hebbal.

"We have requested for Regional Rapid Transit System (RRTS) for Bidadi-Mysuru, Harohalli-Kanakapura, Nelamangala-Tumakuru, Airport-Chikkaballapur, Hoskote-Kolar. Satellite towns are being planned around Bengaluru and the RRTC project will help this plan," he added.

Satellite will provide faster 4G and 5G services: ISRO

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

WITH the launch of the BlueBird6, the commercial communication satellite of AST SpaceMobiles, a Texas-based firm, the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) also demonstrated its might, said ISRO Chairman V Narayanan.

During the BlueBird Block-2 mission, ISRO inducted the electromechanical actuation mechanism control system for the S200 for the first time. "This gives us great confidence for the upcoming Gaganyaan programme," he said. The S200 is an essential component of the satellites as it serves as a powerful rocket booster, helping in heavy liftoff launch vehicles, particularly the Launch Vehicle Mark-3 which was used for the launch for the heaviest communication satellite, of 6100 kg, on Wednesday. "In the coming year, we have a lot of missions and responsibilities to accomplish. One of the major missions is the uncrewed Gaganyaan missions, which we have to accomplish," he said.

Sources said that the date for launching the uncrewed mission with the first half-humanoid, Vyommitra, is not yet decided. Narayanan added: "Our startup companies are doing a great job. One of the orbital launch missions from the Indian startup companies is targeted for launch in the next couple of weeks," he said.

Commenting on the completion of the National of Indian Constellation satellites, he said: "Commissioning of the navigation satellites is one of the important commitments given to the country. We will complete the series (pending NVS-03, NVS-04 and NVS-05) and start placing the satellites in the orbit soon." "We are also looking at the launch of a couple of more commercial missions from New Space India Limited (NSIL). In the year ahead we will also accomplish the launch of user funded satellites for different ministries and departments," Narayanan said.

THE booster has been developed by Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre. The Texas-based AST SpaceMobile is building the first and only space-based cellular broadband network, accessible directly by smartphones and designed for both commercial and government applications.

Explaining the BlueBird Block-2 Mission, the team said the satellite – which will be a part of a constellation of other similar satellites under the mission – will provide faster 4G and 5G services and video calls. It also aims at enhancing network connectivity with locations where there were hassles earlier. AST SpaceMobile has launched five satellites, BlueBird 1-5 in September 2024, which provide continuous coverage across the US and other select countries.

The LVM3-M6 has injected the satellite in the 518.50 km circular LEO orbit at a 53 degree inclination to the equator. It is just 1.5 km lower than the designated orbit, and is considered accurate. This precise placement is also an achievement marked by the ISRO team, said Narayanan. Senior scientists said the satellite was brought to Sriharikotta on October 16. The launch was postponed due to technical issues before it was decided to finally launch it on December 24. The satellite and its data are being tracked by ISRO's space stations in Sriharikota and Port Blair. It will also be tracked by satellite data centres in Australia and Indonesia.

TRADE DEALS BRIGHTEN A YEAR OF NAVIGATING DIPLOMATIC DOLDRUMS

INDIAN diplomacy in 2025 unfolded in a world short on certainty. Trade rules were rewritten on the fly, alliances were tested, and neighbourhood pressures refused to ease. Yet, as the year closed, New Delhi could point to a set of concrete diplomatic outcomes that suggested direction, not drift. The year's first signal came from London. The Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement with the UK, signed during Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit, is India's most ambitious trade pact with a developed economy in years. By granting duty-free access to 99 percent of Indian exports by value, the agreement improves prospects for labour-intensive sectors such as textiles, leather, marine products and jewellery, while opening fresh opportunities for engineering goods, chemicals and auto components. What makes the pact stand out is its services architecture, a sector in which India's exports to the UK is nearing $20 billion. The agreement enhances Indian professionals' mobility beyond IT to sectors such as finance, education, architecture and engineering—a first for the UK at this scale. It signals a shift from transactional trade to longer-term economic integration.

If the UK pact marked determination at the end of years-long parleys, speed defined the India-New Zealand free trade agreement. Launched in March and concluded by December, it ranks among India's fastest trade negotiations. Beyond tariff reductions, it positions India as a supplier of skilled talent and services, while offering a wider strategic entry into Oceania and the Pacific. In West Asia, the India-Oman Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement added depth to a trusted relationship. With 99 percent of Indian exports set to enjoy duty-free access and Oman allowing 100 percent investment in services, the pact strengthens cooperation beyond energy to education and healthcare, which could be crucial for India's next phase of growth in services exports.

Closer home, India reinforced its standing as the first responder in Sri Lanka by continuing to offer help in cash and kind after the devastation wreaked by cyclone Ditwah. These gains came amid regional temperatures rising in Dhaka, Kathmandu and Islamabad, and global disruptions caused by Donald Trump's second coming. New Delhi responded with tenacity, absorbing shocks, diversifying markets and mending relationships. In a fractured world, India ended the year with more options—and that can be counted as a net diplomatic gain.

ISRO'S BAHUBALI RAISES HOPE FOR MISSIONS AHEAD

THE Indian Space Research Organisation flexed its muscles on Wednesday by placing into orbit the heaviest satellite it has launched so far—the 6.1-tonne BlueBird Block 2 designed by a private American company. The heavy communication satellite is part of a constellation of low Earth orbit missions that aim to provide mobile satellite connectivity across time zones. The launch resulted from a commercial deal between Isro's business arm NewSpace India and the Nasdaq-listed AST SpaceMobile. Isro also launched the company's first satellite, BlueWalker 1, from the Satish Dhawan Space Centre in Sriharikota in 2019. Until Wednesday, the heaviest payload lifted by Isro was on November 2, when it launched India's own 4.4-tonne communication satellite GSAT-7R into a geosynchronous transfer orbit.

Isro's ambitious future projects include India's first manned space mission, Gaganyaan, in early 2027; Chandrayaan-4, a lunar sample-collection mission, in late 2027; India's own space station in 2035; and landing the first Indian astronauts on the moon by 2040. All these missions will require much heavier payloads to be lifted, for which Wednesday's success is a major boost. The first of the five modules of Bharat Antriksh Station, weighing 10 tonnes, will be launched in 2028 aboard a launch vehicle similar to the one used Wednesday, the LVM3. The BAS is planned to weigh 52 tonnes in all when assembled in space. Besides, Isro's space docking experiment or SpaDeX, launched in January 2025, saw two 220-kg satellites successfully docking and undocking. The plan is to send up heavier satellites in the future for a similar exercise, the capability for which will be crucial to keep the BAS operational, and for other future manned missions to the moon and beyond.

The heavy-lifting LVM3 launchers, nicknamed Bahubali, are designed for much heavier payloads. The Wednesday launch was a test whose success will give the courage to increase the load. So the Bahubalis will be tested time and again. Its two solid-propellant boosters, developed at the Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre in Thiruvananthapuram, generate the thrust required to lift not just bigger payloads, but India's space ambitions higher. Space missions have to be meticulously planned in numerous steps. The BlueBird launch was a crucial step that Isro aced.

QUICK TAKE

GREAT INDIAN HIGHWAY ROBBERY

A transformative move is being undone by greed. The GST removed octroi. But soaring corruption among transport officials is ensuring that the black money needed to move goods across state borders has gone up. This year saw a parade of such corruption. In January, a transport department constable in Madhya Pradesh went on the lam after probes unearthed assets worth more than ₹500 crore. The next month, the CBI arrested six Delhi officials for corruption. In March, a similar story played out in Odisha. This week, a deputy transport commissioner in Hyderabad was arrested for failing to explain ₹250 crore in assets. If we want to improve the ease of doing business, we must set up a national taskforce for nabbing such border bandits—all of whom happen to be public servants.

EU's decision to issue bonds to give Ukraine a loan—and not use frozen Russian assets—exposed new chasms. Meanwhile, the Americans are preparing for dialogue with the Russians

THE MOSCOW-KYIV CONFLICT STRAINS PARIS-BERLIN TIES

M K BHADRAKUMAR

Former diplomat

SOURAV ROY

THE European Union summit last Thursday in Brussels turned out to be a pivotal event. The highlight was the EU's decision not to tap Russia's frozen wealth, estimated to be around 210 billion held under member states' jurisdictions, with the largest chunk of over 180 billion at Euroclear in Belgium.

The EU, instead, chose to offer Ukraine a financial lifeline by raising a 90-billion Eurobond against its budget. Cracks have appeared in the bloc's unity. A growing number of EU countries are no longer convinced that the war can be salvaged.

Basically, the obstacles to the sequestration of Russian funds were not technical but political. Belgium objected to illegal seizure, insisting it should be a collective responsibility to bear the consequences of any Russian retaliation. Italy and Austria felt the same way. At the summit, France defected at the last minute and folded in behind Italy, which has isolated Germany.

Kyiv's ability to repay the loan after the conflict is doubtful. But the EU is committed to paying at least 3 billion in interest annually. The endgame can be either a complete write-off of the loan, or Russia agreeing to pay reparations—or, Ukraine winning the war. To navigate the dangerous shoals ahead, the EU has indefinitely extended the freeze on the Russian sovereign assets, signalling readiness to accept legal and diplomatic risks to maintain control of the funds.

To be sure, the fate of Russia's frozen assets in Europe has become a flashpoint. On the one hand, it reveals deep divisions within the West. On the other, it raises urgent questions about the future of international finance. The debate has exposed not only legal and financial anxieties, but also the shifting sands of global power and trust.

A senior European diplomat told FT, "[French president] Macron betrayed [German Chancellor] Merz, and he knows there will be a price to pay for that… The stand-off underscores a new dynamic between Europe's largest powers: an initiative-driven Germany and a foot-dragging France… Paris has been hamstrung by high public debt and political instability… The imbalance has dashed hopes of a major reboot of the Franco-German engine that once powered some of the EU's biggest policy leaps."

France nonetheless continues to be at the forefront of Europe's efforts to cope with the dramatic shift in US attitude toward its NATO and EU allies. The spotlight on France is because it is the EU's only nuclear power and a country with independent weapons makers. France sees Russia as a growing threat to the continent and is boosting military spending, increasing weapons production and doubling the reserve force.

But, typically, Macron is also positioning France as a potential mediator between Europe and Russia. He may be heading for bilateral talks with Putin. The Kremlin "expressed readiness to engage in dialogue" with Macron, and Elysée responded positively that it will decide "in the coming days on the best way to proceed". Macron has called on Europeans to engage in dialogue with Putin. The irreversible nature of the Russian military offensive is sinking in at last in the ossified European mindset.

However, there is also a quintessential loner watching from across the Channel. A dangerous phase of the 'dirty war' lies ahead. A quote often attributed to Winston Churchill says, "Success lies in going from failure to failure without loss of enthusiasm." Evidently, Britain will not survive a war with Russia. The residual strength of 'Global Britain' lies in undertaking daring covert operations. Russian ships have been attacked as far away as the Libyan coast in the Mediterranean. Ukraine lacked the expertise or capability to stage Operation Spiderweb—the June 1 simultaneous drone attacks at five air bases deep inside Russia across five time zones, including Belaya in Eastern Siberia 4300 km from Ukraine's border.

Russian Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR) Director Sergey Naryshkin revealed last week, "Just a few days ago, I had a rather lengthy phone conversation with the recently appointed MI6 Director Blaise Metreweli." But on Monday, yet another Russian general was assassinated in Moscow in a car bomb attack. Moscow has let it be known that the Oreshnik, the hypersonic missile that can reach Britain in 11 minutes, and the S-500 air defence system have been put on 'combat duty'.

All in all, the European summit was further confirmation of the growing discord and fatigue over the Ukrainian conflict and the lack of a unified strategy for ending it. This will affect the prospects for a settlement. It is inevitable that the search for settlement will be increasingly based on new political realities. Indications are that Russian forces are moving in the direction of Odessa, Kharkiv and Sumy as well as Dnipropetrovsk, the most important industrial region of Ukraine.

Russian officials are sceptical about the nascent peace process. They anticipate the military offensive to continue into next spring. The Kremlin elites are sensitive to the national mood that, having come this far, Russia must ensure this is a war to end all wars in the region.

Following the latest consultations of Putin's special envoy Kirill Dmitriev with his American counterpart Steve Witkoff through Sunday in Miami, US Vice President J D Vance touched the right chord: "The breakthrough I do feel we've made is that all of the issues are actually out in the open… I wouldn't say with confidence that we are going to get to a peaceful resolution. I think there is a good chance we will, I think there is a good chance we won't."

Indeed, although a settlement for Ukraine has clearly taken the centre-stage, Russia's priority also lies in stabilising the relationship with the US. There is talk of Moscow hosting Trump, Vance and State Secretary Marco Rubio early next year. On their part, the Americans are working on Putin's possible visit to attend the G20 summit in Miami. Preparations for a meeting between American congressmen and Russian Duma members are also under way. Changes in US policy toward Russia can also be seen in the new national security strategy, which explicitly disfavours Nato's "endless expansion".

HIGHER STANDARDS FOR HIGHER EDU

MAMIDALA JAGADESH KUMAR

Former Chairman, UGC and former Vice Chancellor, JNU

INDIA'S higher education system now enrols crores of students every year, making it one of the biggest anywhere. However, it struggles with a regulatory architecture built for another era.

Four national regulators touch almost all of India's college-going population. The University Grants Commission sets the broad rules for the vast majority of learners (~80 percent). Technical, teacher education, and architecture programmes fall under the jurisdiction of the All India Council for Technical Education, the National Council for Teacher Education, and the Council of Architecture, which together supervise over 10 percent of the rest. Parents, employers and students are increasingly asking a simple question: can this system actually deliver strong learning outcomes and meaningful careers?

The National Education Policy, 2020 argued that regulation should be firm on ethics and quality, yet minimal in everyday interference to provide greater autonomy for well-performing institutions. This balance is surprisingly difficult to achieve when multiple regulators issue separate norms for the same institution. A single university that offers BA, BTech, and BEd programmes may need to fill more forms than whole classrooms in a semester to satisfy the requirements of different regulatory bodies.

The Union government has now placed the Viksit Bharat Shiksha Adhishthan Bill before parliament. It aims to tackle this long-pending problem by setting up a Shiksha Adhishthan as the apex regulatory body for higher education. It will have three specialised councils under it—Viniyaman Parishad (Regulatory Council), Gunvatta Parishad (Accreditation Council), and Manak Parishad (Standards Council). The old regulators will now give way to a single, harmonised framework, while institutions of national importance will retain their autonomy.

At its core, the Bill insists that standard-setting, regulation and accreditation cannot be housed under one roof. The Standards Council will outline what good teaching should look like in various disciplines and keep those expectations aligned across the system. In architecture, the CoA would focus on defining good practice, while leaving enforcement to the new regulator. To oversee standards, the Regulatory Council will use a digital portal, drawing on data that institutions themselves publish in advance. The Accreditation Council will oversee an independent ecosystem of accreditation agencies and assess quality. When one body does not design standards, regulate and rate performance at once, conflicts of interest are reduced and credibility increases.

Another notable feature of the proposed Adhishthan is its inclusive structure—more akin to a round table than a command centre, with state representation and academic leadership integrated into decision-making. State governments will still decide where new campuses are established and what programmes are offered. Now they will also sit at the table where standards and regulations are discussed. The model creates a participatory platform to share responsibility and accountability. This co-operative approach helps address a common concern that a national body could centralise control and weaken the federal balance.

PTI

With three separate councils to regulate, accredit and set standards under the proposed apex regulatory body for higher education, conflicts of interest can be reduced. Student feedback on academic quality and campus infrastructure can inform an institution's rank. States can sit at the table where regulations are discussed

What would all this mean for students, the real stakeholders? When clear benchmarks and open accreditation reports judge colleges, students, especially those from smaller towns, can make far more informed choices about where to enrol. It provides for a grievance system that is accessible and responsive. Students can provide feedback on academic quality, infrastructure, governance and campus life so that it becomes a formal input into ranking and accreditation.

For institutions, the Bill promises both simplification and greater autonomy for those that perform well. A single digital dashboard will require institutions to publish key facts, from finances to faculty strength, which regulators and accreditors will then use instead of repeatedly requesting for data. This means approvals can move more quickly and objectively.

The youth dimension is critical. What if a working professional could return after a decade to stack a new qualification onto an old degree without fighting fresh regulatory hurdles? An aligned regulatory system can make it easier for institutions to design such programmes. Interdisciplinary and flexible curriculums allow students to explore diverse fields and reskill or upskill over time.

A stronger focus on research and innovation encourages problem-solving, creativity and self-reliance. If regulation supports these goals, India can create a broad talent pool ready for new-age challenges in technology, innovation and entrepreneurship.

The Bill explicitly recognises the value of global best practices. Instead of importing a foreign template, the Bill integrates international lessons with India's own institutional experience into a regulatory 'operating system' that the world can recognise and trust, while retaining national values and priorities.

The Bill aims to create an ecosystem where institutions move from overlapping procedures to more coordinated processes and from ambiguity to objectivity. It eschews a control-heavy mindset and lays a foundation for collaboration, academic judgement and institutional autonomy.

When regulatory requirements are simpler and clearly tied to learning outcomes, administrative work consumes a smaller portion of a faculty member's effort. They can now focus more on research, pedagogy and programme design. The Adhishthan envisions regulation as an enabler of Atmanirbhar Bharat in higher education, paving the way for a Viksit Bharat.

China likely to stabilise India ties to stop deepening of US relations

US defence dept outlines New Delhi's role in Xi Jinping's long-term strategic & military vision

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

CHINA is seeking to leverage reduced tensions along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) with India to stabilise bilateral relations and prevent a deeper strategic alignment between New Delhi and Washington, according to the US Department of Defence's latest annual report to Congress on China's military and security developments.

The report, which outlines Beijing's long-term strategic ambitions, says India remains wary of China's intentions despite recent efforts at de-escalation. "India probably remains sceptical of China's actions and motives. Continued mutual distrust and other irritants almost certainly limit the bilateral relationship."

At the core of China's strategy, the report says, is President Xi Jinping's vision of achieving "the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation" by 2049. A rejuvenated China, it says, seeks to raise its "influence, appeal, and power to shape events to a new level," underpinned by a "world-class" military capable of "fighting and winning" wars and resolutely safeguarding China's sovereignty, security and development interests.

'Rejuvenated China' aim of Xi Jinping's strategy

At the core of China's strategy, the report says, is President Xi Jinping's vision of achieving "the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation" by 2049. A rejuvenated China, it says, seeks to raise its "influence, appeal, and power to shape events to a new level," underpinned by a "world-class" military capable of "fighting and winning" wars and resolutely safeguarding China's sovereignty, security and development interests.

Central to this ambition are what Beijing defines as its three non-negotiable "core interests": maintaining the Chinese Communist Party's (CCP) control, promoting economic development, and defending and expanding China's sovereignty and territorial claims. The Pentagon report notes that China's leadership has steadily expanded the scope of these core interests to include Taiwan and contested territories in the South China Sea, the Senkaku Islands, and India's Arunachal Pradesh.

"Chinese officials have described the unification of China and contested territories, especially Taiwan, as a 'natural requirement' for national rejuvenation," the report says. It adds that the CCP is acutely sensitive to any perceived threats to its authority or criticism that it is failing to defend Chinese interests. The Pentagon says Beijing routinely labels political opposition in Hong Kong, Xinjiang, and Tibet, as well as Taiwan's leadership, as "separatist elements" allegedly backed by "external forces."

Such groups, the report says, are viewed by the CCP as an "unacceptable threat to its legitimacy and power." The report also places India-China dynamics within the broader US-China relationship. It claims that under President Donald Trump's leadership, ties between Washington and Beijing are "stronger than they have been in many years," and says the US Department of Defence will support efforts to build on this momentum.

At the same time, the Pentagon stresses that US interests in the Indo-Pacific are "fundamental, but also scoped and reasonable." "We do not seek to strangle, dominate, or humiliate China," it says. "Rather, we seek only to deny the ability of any country in the Indo-Pacific to dominate us or our allies."

The Department of Defence says it will prioritise bolstering deterrence "through strength, not confrontation," with the aim of sustaining a balance of power that preserves stability.

30 Indians arrested for driving trucks without valid licences in California

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

SOME 30 Indian nationals living illegally in the United States have been arrested in California after being found driving semi-trucks using commercial driver's licenses, according to U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP). The arrests were made by Border Patrol agents in the El Centro Sector during immigration checkpoint stops and joint enforcement operations over the past few weeks.

CBP said 49 undocumented immigrants holding commercial driver's licenses were arrested between November 23 and December 12. Thirty of those were Indian nationals.

Authorities said most of the licenses were issued by US states. California accounted for 31 of the commercial driver's licenses involved, while others were issued by states such as Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Maryland, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Washington.

CBP said the operation was launched following several fatal highway accidents involving undocumented drivers operating semi-trucks. In recent months, multiple Indian nationals have been arrested in connection with deadly crashes. In August, Harjinder Singh was charged with three counts of vehicular homicide in Florida.

That same month, Partap Singh was arrested after a multi-vehicle pileup in California. In October, Jashanpreet Singh was arrested following a crash that killed three US citizens. In another case, Rajinder Kumar was charged with criminally negligent homicide after two people died in a collision involving his truck.

Remenar said individuals without legal status "should never have been operating these semitrucks," and blamed states that issued the licenses for putting lives at risk. El Centro Sector Acting Chief Patrol Agent Joseph Remenar said the arrests highlight the expanding role of Border Patrol agents away from the border. He noted that since the start of Fiscal Year 2026, arrests made in the interior of the country have exceeded those made at the border. "Our agents are protecting the country both at the border and well inside the United States,"

Part of the arrests came during Operation Highway Sentinel, a two-day joint enforcement effort held on December 10 and 11 in Ontario and Fontana, California. The operation was led by US Immigration and Customs Enforcement's Homeland Security Investigations and focused on commercial trucking companies. During the operation, 45 undocumented immigrants with commercial driver's licenses were arrested. Indio Station agents made seven of those arrests, including five Indian nationals. Meanwhile, CBP reported a sharp decline in illegal border crossings in the San Diego Sector.

US authorities say decline in illegal border crossings

CBP reported a sharp decline in illegal border crossings in the San Diego Sector. Only 1,793 apprehensions were recorded in the first two months of the fiscal year, a 93 percent drop compared to the same period last year. Chief Patrol Agent Justin De La Torre attributed the decline to tougher enforcement, an end to catch-and-release practices, and faster removals.

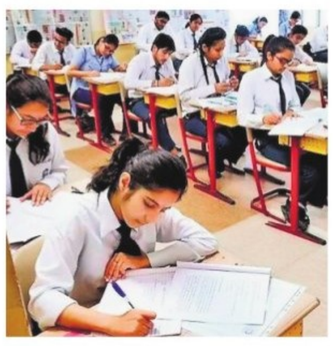
50L failed in boards, need to be sent to Open School: Secy

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

AROUND 50 lakh students across the country have failed to clear the final exams of Class X and XII in 2024, said Sanjay Kumar, Secretary of the school education and literacy department. "It is crucial to help them complete their formal education by introducing them to the Open School system," he said on Wednesday.

"Nearly 2 crore students took up the Class X final exam in 2024 but over 26 lakh of them could not clear it. It is much higher for Class XII final exam as 30% of the students could not pass. All these students who could not make the cut need to be introduced to the Open School system so that they can get their pass certificates." The certificates issued by the National Institute of Open School (NIOS) under the education ministry have the same value as that obtained through other school boards, Kumar said.

The percentage of enrolment of children in schools is 93% up to Class VIII. However it comes down to 68% when enrolment is assessed for classes 9 to 12, the Secretary said. "Our goal is to ensure a gross enrolment ratio of 100% up to Class XII for all students."



Nearly 2 crore students took up the Class X final exam in 2024 but over 26 lakh of them could not clear it. It is much higher for Class XII final exam as 30% of the students could not pass.

Sanjay Kumar, Secretary of the school education and literacy department

He said, "While the dropping out of girl students has been redressed considerably, the dropout rate of boys is higher now and is a matter of concern."

Financial issues and the need to go to work are the reasons behind 72% of their dropouts. "There are jobs in which those above 14 years can be employed provided they are not hazardous and this is where they end up. The need to take care of household responsibilities is the reason in the case of dropout of girl students," the Secretary added.

The Secretary said they have urged UNESCO to change the parameters used to calculate schooling.

"A student who has failed in Class X is calculated as having done eight years of schooling whereas it is nine years actually. Similarly, a Class XII fail student is said to have done 1 years of schooling but it should be 11 years actually. This is important as the United National Development Programme fixes the Human Development Index based on the years of schooling of students," the Secretary explained.

'62% of mouth cancers due to alcohol, tobacco'

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

SIX out of 10 people in India are suffering from mouth cancer due to frequent consumption of alcohol, along with chewing of smokeless tobacco products such as gutkha, khaini, paan, said a first large-scale study published on Wednesday.

Authored by a team of researchers from the Center for Cancer Epidemiology, and Homi Bhabha National Institute, in Maharashtra, the study found that as little as under 2 gram a day of beer was associated with a heightened risk of buccal mucosa cancer (BMC), while 9 gram a day of alcohol - equivalent to around one standard drink - was associated with an approximately 50 per cent increased risk of mouth cancer. When combined with chewing tobacco, it is likely accounted for 62% of all such cases in the country.

The findings, published in the journal BMJ Global Health, suggest that more than one in 10 cases (nearly 11.5%) of all buccal mucosa cancers in India are attributable to alcohol, rising to 14% in some of the states with a high prevalence of the disease, such as Meghalaya, Assam, and Madhya Pradesh.

States like Arunachal Pradesh have reported the highest prevalence of alcohol consumption (26%), while states like Gujarat have reported very low alcohol consumption (4%).

As of 2022, there were an estimated 4,00,000 new oral cancer cases globally. It is the second most common cancer in India, with an estimated 1,43,759 new cases and 79,979 deaths occurring each year in India alone. BMC is the predominant form of oral cancer in the Indian sub-continent, and despite its poor survival rate - 43% net five year survival. "This study shows that alcohol, even in low quantities, increases the risk for BMC. Prevention of consumption of tobacco and alcohol together could substantially reduce the incidence of BMC," the study said.

For the study, researchers investigated the impact of alcohol consumption, including 11 internationally-recognised liquors and 30 locally-brewed liquor (LBLs) from different regions of India - Tharra, Desi, Mahua, Apong on the risk of BMC among Indian men.

The researchers compared 1,803 people with confirmed buccal mucosa cancer and 1,903 randomly selected people free of the disease (controls) from five different study centres between 2010 and 2021.

Most of the participants were aged between 35 and 54; nearly half (around 46%) of cases were among 25-to 45-year-olds. It found that compared with those who didn't drink alcohol, the risk was 68% higher for those who did, rising to 72% for those favouring internationally recognised alcohol, and to 87% for those opting for local drinks.

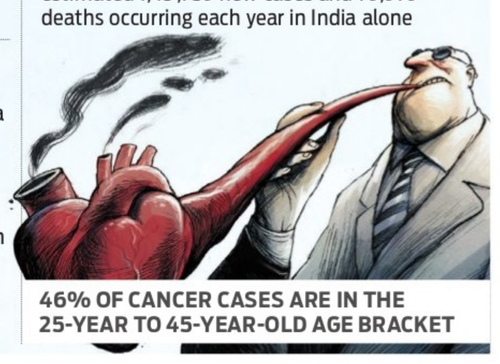
Six out of 10 people in India suffer from mouth cancer due to frequent consumption of alcohol, along with chewing of smokeless tobacco products such as gutkha, khaini, paan

One in 10 cases (nearly 11.5%) of all buccal mucosa cancers are attributable to alcohol, rising to 14% in some states with a high prevalence, such as Meghalaya, Assam, and Madhya Pradesh

STATES AT RISK

States like Arunachal Pradesh have reported the highest prevalence of alcohol consumption (26%), while states like Gujarat have reported very low alcohol consumption (4%)

As of 2022, there were an estimated 4,00,000 new oral cancer cases globally. It is the second most common cancer in India, with an estimated 1,43,759 new cases and 79,979 deaths occurring each year in India alone



46% OF CANCER CASES ARE IN THE 25-YEAR TO 45-YEAR-OLD AGE BRACKET

25% world TB cases in India

India contributes about one-fourth of the world's tuberculosis (TB) burden, with around 2.5 million new cases and nearly 3,00,000 deaths annually, said a ICMR report released on Wednesday. The report, released by Union Health Minister JP Nadda, said over the past decade, the NTE programme has introduced initiatives to achieve the country's goal of TB elimination by 2030.

85% drop in Malaria cases

Malaria cases in India have dropped from 1.17 million in 2015 to around 227,000 in 2024, an 80-85% reduction, said a latest ICMR report released Wednesday. Malaria-related deaths have fallen from 384 to approximately 83, a decrease of about 78%. India aims to eliminate Malaria by 2030, with the govt saying it is committed to achieving zero indigenous cases by 2027.

40% farmers linked to coops see improved yields

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

MORE than 40% of marginal farmers linked to cooperatives have experienced an increase in household income and improved crop yields, a new report says, calling for making the country's cooperative structures more inclusive to assist more such farmers.

This report, titled 'State of Marginal Farmers in India 2025', was prepared by the Forum of Enterprises for Equitable Development (FEED) and released on Farmers' Day (December 23) by K Tripathi, Joint Secretary of the Economic Advisory Council (EAC-PM) at NITI Aayog, along with Sudhir Mahajan, Chief Executive of the National Cooperative Union of India. It is based on a comprehensive survey conducted across Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Himachal Pradesh, Maharashtra, Tripura, and Uttarakhand.

"Approximately 45% of cooperative-linked marginal farmers reported an increase in household income, and about 42% noted improvements in crop yields," the report says. "About 25% of marginal farmers are active members of agricultural cooperatives. This lack of participation makes them more reliant on informal markets, leads to slower income growth, and increases their vulnerability to climate and market shocks."

Around 88% of farmers own on an average less than two hectares of land. Of them, around 60% are marginal farmers with an acreage of less than one hectare. The report says that households of marginal farmers remain the most vulnerable segment of the agricultural economy.

The report advocates for structural changes in the current cooperative model to make it more inclusive for marginal farmers. "Systemic and structural barriers, such as complex procedures, distances from Primary Agricultural Credit Societies (PACS), limited access to capital, and social exclusion, continue to hinder participation of marginal farmers in cooperatives," it says.

States where PACS operate as integrated service centres tend to bring better outcomes for marginal farmers, the report highlights. "Primary Agricultural Credit Societies are increasingly functioning as broader rural service hubs, rather than just credit providers. Across the states, PACS are supporting input supply enabling procurement and marketing, distributing essential commodities through the public distribution system (PDS), and facilitating access to digital and public services," the reports says.

The report also addresses significant gender gaps in the agricultural cooperative sector. Despite having a large number of women in cooperative membership—approximately 21.25 lakh—their representation in leadership positions is low, making the sector male-dominated.

Gender gap in agricultural cooperative sector

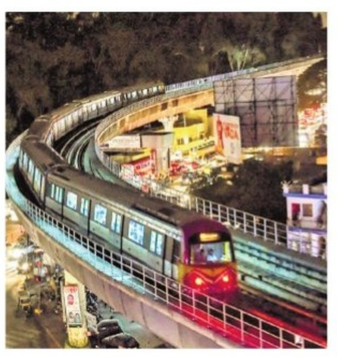
Additionally, the report addresses significant gender gaps in the agricultural cooperative sector. Only 3,355 women serve as directors on cooperative boards nationwide. "Barriers like restrictive social norms, limited mobility, and the time burdens associated with unpaid care work are contributing factors to this disconnect between membership and leadership," the report says.

Projects commissioned, India set to overtake US in metro network length

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Railways has claimed that India is on course to overtake the United States in total metro network length as ongoing projects are commissioned. Metro and suburban rail networks are currently operational across 1,090 km in 26 cities, including both major metros and Tier-2 cities, making urban mobility faster and more economically affordable for low- and middle-income groups. The Ministry further stated that despite the rapid expansion of metro and suburban rail services, no fare hike has been implemented so far by the government, reflecting its concern for low- and middle-class commuters.

Speaking to this newspaper on Wednesday, an official at the Ministry said that India's metro network has grown exponentially from just 248 km across five cities in 2014 to 1,090 km in 2025, spanning 26 cities- both metro and Tier-2. This represents a remarkable 340% growth over the past decade.



He said that metro expansion has taken place not only in major cities but also in Tier-2 cities such as Bhopal, Indore, Kanpur, Nagpur, Pune, Surat, Agra, Lucknow, Jaipur and Kochi. He added that metro services were operational over just 27 km in 2002, which increased to 50 km in 2004, 101 km in 2009, 249 km in 2014, 647 km in 2019, 945 km in 2024 and 1,090 km in 2025.

According to the official, the commissioning of metro lines has increased nine times compared to pre-2014 rates, with the aim of accelerating urban transport infrastructure under the NDA government.

Highlighting the work done on metro and suburban rail services during the current NDA government, the official said that urban mobility has been made affordable and efficient, with metro travel costing 50–60% less per passenger-km than private vehicles. He said this has significantly reduced daily commuting costs and eased traffic congestion on roads.

Citing figures, the official further added that affordable fare slabs, typically ranging between ₹20 and ₹60 at launch in cities such as Bhopal, demonstrate accessibility for low- and middle-income commuters.

He further stated that average daily metro ridership across the country now stands at around 1.15 crore, which is four times higher than the 28 lakh daily ridership recorded in 2014.

GANGRAPE

A manager of a private IT company was allegedly gangraped in a moving car in Rajasthan's Udaipur on the pretext that she would be dropped home after a birthday party, police said on Wednesday.

BJP MP's remark on voters' deletion sparks row ● Flag marches held in Karbi Anglong ● Demonstrators clash with cops in Bengal

Clashes between 2 Matua groups rock Bengal town

SUBHENDU MAITI @ Kolkata

THAKURNAGAR, the administrative headquarters of the Matua community, witnessed unprecedented violence on Wednesday as rival groups aligned with BJP MP and Union Minister of Shipping Shantanu Thakur and Trinamool Congress Rajya Sabha MP Mamatabala Thakur clashed over voter list revisions. The confrontation comes after nearly one lakh Matua voters were reportedly removed from the electoral rolls following the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) in West Bengal. Tensions escalated after Shantanu Thakur's remarks on Monday night suggesting that such exclusions were a "sacrifice" necessary to disenfranchise 50 lakh Muslims.

In response, hundreds of Matuas supporting Mamatabala Thakur marched toward Shantanu Thakur's residence, demanding clarification. "The aggrieved Matuas were organising a peaceful demonstration in protest against deletion of their names from electoral rolls, but they were attacked," said an All India Matua Mahasangha spokesperson.

Mamatabala Thakur accused the BJP of betraying the community. "Why did the party leadership organise camps and distribute cards assuring the inclusion of Matua voters if they were planning to remove them? The conspiracy of Shantanu Thakur and the BJP to delete one lakh Matua voters' names has come to light," she said.

Followers of Shantanu Thakur allegedly attacked the protestors, triggering a scuffle near his house that left several people injured. Police forces rushed to the scene to restore order.

Shantanu Thakur, addressing a BJP meeting earlier, had said, "Even if it is a problem, we should accept this," referring to the exclusion of some voters. He emphasised that applying for citizenship under the amended law was the solution to identity issues faced by Hindu migrants, including Matuas. BJP leaders have sought to downplay the controversy.

Additional forces deployed to keep peace in Assam

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

AN uneasy calm returned to Kheroni in Assam's West Karbi Anglong district on Wednesday after two days of violence over the alleged encroachment of village grazing reserves (VGRs) and professional grazing reserves (PGRs) by "outsiders". The unrest left two people dead and around 70 injured.

No fresh violence was reported on Wednesday, though tensions lingered. On Tuesday, a tribal protestor was killed in police firing, while a differently-abled man died after being trapped inside a shop set on fire.

A group of non-tribals staged a protest at the West Karbi Anglong-Hojai border, demanding the arrest of those responsible and ₹20 lakh in compensation for the family of the non-tribal victim.

Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said the government had anticipated sporadic incidents ahead of the Assembly elections. "We were aware that some tensions could flare up," he said, adding he did not want to attribute the unrest to any "third party or fourth party".

Authorities have deployed additional forces, including five CRPF companies, and conducted joint flag marches. Director General of Police Harmeet Singh said the situation is totally under control, and an Army column has marched through. He added, "We have counted 60 police personnel who were injured, some seriously." Singh also said those responsible were being identified from video footage and would face legal action. Inspector General of Police Akhilesh Kumar Singh confirmed that forces were deployed around Kheroni and said, "There is no unauthorised gathering today."

On Tuesday, Karbi protestors had torched shops and houses, mostly affecting non-tribals, particularly Biharis. Police were attacked with stones, bombs, and arrows, with some officers sustaining minor injuries.

Protests against B'desh Hindu man killing continue

SUBHENDU MAITI @ Kolkata

FRESH protests erupted in Kolkata and districts across West Bengal on Wednesday over the brutal killing of 25-year-old Dipu Chandra Das, a Hindu youth from Mymensingh, Bangladesh. Demonstrators blocked goods vehicles, squatted on roads, and clashed with police in several locations.

In Kolkata, violence broke out when BJP supporters tried to march to the Howrah Bridge, a key link between the city and southern districts. "We will not let anyone hamper normal life and cause trouble to commuters in the name of protest," a senior Howrah police officer said. As barricades were set up, protesters attempted to break through, prompting scuffles.

Unrest was also reported along border points in Siliguri, Darjeeling district, and Petrapol/Ghozadanga in North 24 Parganas, where Hindutva groups blocked trucks carrying export and import goods. Rajendra Saha, an activist with the Sanatani Jatiotabadi Mancha, said, "We want the Indian government to stop all trade and diplomatic relations with Bangladesh, where minority Hindus like Dipu Chandra Das are being killed and tortured."

Das, a garment factory worker, was lynched and his body set on fire on 18 December over alleged blasphemy in Baluka, Mymensingh. Protests have also taken place in Kolkata over the past few days. On Tuesday, hundreds attempted to march to the Bangladesh Deputy High Commission but were stopped by police, leading to clashes.

Senior BJP MLA and Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari, who led a 2,000-strong rally on Monday, warned, "We want strict punishment for all those involved in the murder of Das. We want atrocities and attacks on Hindus in Bangladesh to be stopped immediately. If there is no end to attacks on Hindus, we will return with 10,000 people on December 26."

Starter gun firing prompts Guv to order probe

An incident involving the firing of a starter gun during flagging-off of a marathon run in the city on December 21 prompted the West Bengal Governor C V Ananda Bose to order a probe into the matter. The incident occurred when the Governor was firing from the gun to kick-off the event. Bose, on Tuesday, formed a probe committee to assess the matter by exploring multiple angles, officials at the Lok Bhavan said. The order followed a report submitted by the Aide-de-Camp on duty, Major Nikhil Kumar, which stated that the starter gun had been arranged by the event organisers. According to the report, the Governor had followed all prescribed safety instructions.

Thackeray cousins join hands, but road to BMC uncertain

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Thackeray cousins announced a formal alliance for the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) election on Wednesday, with Uddhav Thackeray appealing to the Marathi people not to get divided or risk losing the authority of the Marathi manoos over Mumbai. The cousins said that their alliance would hold beyond the BMC election for other municipal corporations as well.

While declaring the alliance between the Shiv Sena (UBT) and the Maharashtra Navnirman Sena (MNS), Uddhav said that 106 Marathi people had sacrificed their lives for the creation of a separate state for the Marathis. "Our grandfather, father, and relatives participated in the United Maharashtra movement. The Shiv Sena was born for the right and welfare of Marathi manoos in Mumbai. Some people want to get Mumbai. We Thackerays are here to oppose it. We have come together to remain together. If anyone attacks Mumbai, we will not tolerate it," Uddhav said.

Uddhav added that during the assembly election, the BJP spread fake propaganda with the line "Katenge toh batenge". He said, "Now, I want to tell the Marathi manoos, if you get divided, then the Marathi manoos will not have the authority over Mumbai. Therefore, we need to remain united at any cost and condition."

Raj said that he always maintained that Maharashtra was bigger than any other issue and, therefore, he was ready to join forces with his cousin. "I can say with confidence that the next mayor of Mumbai will be Marathi and from our alliance only," Raj added. He took a tough stand on Hindutva and cautioned the BJP about it. "Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis should not teach us about Hindutva," he said.

Mumbai has more than 150 civic wards out of a total of 227 where Marathi votes make the difference, though the cosmopolitan nature of the city has reduced their collective electoral weight. In the 2017 BMC election, the BJP increased its tally from 35 to 82, which was a massive jump as it was considered a party of Gujaratis, Marwaris, and north Indians.

The undivided Shiv Sena, though formally in an alliance with the BJP then, kept losing its appeal among Marathi voters. After the defection of Eknath Shinde from the Shiv Sena, the Uddhav faction lost further control over the Marathi vote bank. Shinde has become well accepted among the Marathi voters. His Shiv Sena installed presidents at 53 nagar parishad panchayats, second after the BJP that has got 117 presidents, in the recently concluded urban body elections.

ED seizes ₹67L cash in Gujarat land scam case

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

A non-agricultural land scam has rattled Gujarat's bureaucracy after the ED raided top officials' homes in Surendranagar, arrested a deputy mamlatdar with ₹67.50 lakh, seized over 100 files, and exposed a nexus of middlemen, speed money, and misuse of power.

The ED launched raids at the residences of the Surendranagar district collector and other senior officials on Tuesday in connection with the scam running into crores. The search spotlight narrowed on deputy mamlatdar Chandrasinh Mori, who was taken into custody. "The cash recovery is a crucial piece of evidence. It points towards systematic extortion and abuse of official position," an ED officer said.

On Wednesday, the ED produced Mori before a special court in Ahmedabad, seeking a 14-day remand to unravel what officials described as a "well-oiled corruption machinery" operating inside the Collector's office. The court granted remand till January 1.

The remand plea highlights that bribes were collected as 'speed money' for processing applications without delay.

U'khand HC takes note of missing forest pillars and 'unusual wealth' of officers

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

THE Uttarakhand High Court on Wednesday issued notices to the CBI, Centre and the state government in connection with a petition alleging disappearance of 7,375 forest boundary pillars in the Mussoorie forest division and "rapid and unusual" rise in the assets of territorial forest officers posted there.

The bench, led by Justice Manoj Tiwari, expressed displeasure over the magnitude of the missing demarcation markers. It directed all parties, including Survey of India and the Supreme Court's Central Empowered Committee (CEC), to file their affidavits within six weeks and scheduled the next hearing for February 11, 2026.

The PIL, filed by environmental activist Naresh Chaudhary, urges the court to direct the Survey of India to conduct a scientific and geo-referenced survey to accurately locate and restore the missing pillars. It calls for implementation of a dedicated restoration and reclamation plan for the affected forest areas. The PIL also seeks a court directive to transfer all forest lands, currently under the control of revenue authorities, back to the forest department within a timeline.

The crisis came to light in 2023 when an audit of the Mussoorie forest division's boundaries was ordered by the then Chief Conservator of Forests (working plan), Sanjiv Chaturvedi. The report from the then DFO, Mussoorie, revealed that of a total of 12,321 boundary pillars, 7,375 were missing on the ground.

Sources familiar with the investigation indicate that approximately 80 percent of these missing pillars were concentrated in the Mussoorie and Raipur Ranges—areas known to be highly lucrative for real estate development, including hotels and residential complexes.

Following these alarming findings, Sanjiv Chaturvedi escalated the matter. In June and again in August 2025, he wrote to the Head of Forestry Forces (HoFF), Uttarakhand, demanding that the investigation be handed over to the CBI and the ED. This request specifically included probing the acquisition of immovable properties.

Saying 'love you' outrages modesty of women: HC

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE Chhattisgarh High Court, hearing the appeal against the conviction judgment order of the trial court, ruled that saying 'I love you', holding hand and pulling woman towards self amounted to offence as it outrages the modesty of a woman.

The accused, 19 years at the time of incident in Raigarh district, was sentenced to rigorous imprisonment (RI) for 3 years besides a fine of ₹1,000 under Section 354 of IPC (criminal force on a woman with intent to outrage her modesty) and the Protection of Children against Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act by the Fast Track Special Court in 2022. The victim had lodged a written police complaint in November 2019 alleging that the appellant stopped her saying 'I love you', held her hand and pulled her towards him. An FIR was then lodged against him.

A single judge bench of Justice Naresh Kumar Chandravanshi found that the conviction for the offence under the POCSO Act was 'not sustainable' as the prosecution has failed to prove the victim as minor on the date of incident but said that the Fast Track Special Court did no mistake in holding the accused guilty.

Victim's story

The victim had lodged a written police complaint in November 2019 alleging that while she was returning home, the appellant approached her, said 'I love you', held her hand, and pulled her towards him. An FIR was then lodged against him.

HC: Teacher, student relationship a misconduct

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

OBSERVING that the termination of the professor of Motilal Nehru National Institute of Technology (MNNIT), Allahabad, for consensual relationship with one of his students is shockingly disproportionate, the Allahabad High Court set aside his 19-year-old dismissal order as he was accused of emotional and physical harassment by an ex-student.

The court further observed that the relationship with student be misconduct but not sexual harassment as it was consensual. A single judge bench of Justice Saurabh Shyam Shamshery remitted the dismissal order to the disciplinary authority of the institute to reconsider the quantum of punishment.

While the institute was justified in proceeding against

Rajesh Singh for failing to maintain the sanctity of the teacher–student relationship, the extreme penalty of dismissal with disqualification could not be sustained, when the relationship was admitted to be consensual, no criminal case was ever registered, and the complaint was lodged several years after the student had left the institute, he added.

Singh, who joined MNNIT in 1999 as a Lecturer in the Computer Science and Engineering department, was dismissed from service in February 2006.

Cong: Deleted, unmapped voters more than losing margin in MP

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

A day after the first phase of Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of voter roll was completed with the publication of the draft voter list, the opposition Congress targeted the Dr Mohan Yadav government and the ruling BJP, with the SIR first phase figures.

"On the completion of the first phase, the ECI officially stated that more than 42.74 lakh voters, who were part of the October 2025 list of voters, were removed from the SIR draft list on Tuesday. Once the count of unmapped voters is added to it, the figure becomes 51 lakh-plus. The Congress lost the 2023 assembly polls in Madhya Pradesh to the BJP by 32 lakh votes, now the SIR says that 51 lakh voters were dead, shifted, absent, duplicate or unmapped. This clearly proves that the BJP won the 2023 polls with the help of fake voters," former MP minister and state Congress's SIR committee head Sajjan Singh Verma said.

'Gap in SIR data & loss margin prove fake votes'

The Congress lost the 2023 assembly polls in Madhya Pradesh to the BJP by 32L votes, now the SIR says that 51 lakh voters were dead, shifted, absent, duplicate or unmapped. This clearly proves that the BJP won the 2023 polls with the help of fake voters, said Congress's SIR committee head Sajjan Singh Verma.

"The SIR figures are a clear proof that the BJP won the polls in MP through vote chori (vote theft) and the present government is unconstitutional," Verma added.

The committee's member JP Dhanopiya, who also heads the state party's election cell said. "We apprehend that the BJP with the help of ECI will try to get the deleted voters and unmapped voters added back into the list in the second phase of the SIR. We will keep a close tab on the entire process and flag any wrongdoing."

Verma also shared a list of constituencies where the BJP's winning margin in the 2023 elections was less than the total number of voters deleted during the ongoing SIR's first phase. The list of assembly constituencies, SIR results and the 2023 polls winning margin shared by Verma included Surkhi, Gunnaur, Rau, Narela, Rewa and Sihawal seats.

Turkey recovers black boxes from jet crash that killed Libyan commander

ANKARA

SEARCH teams in Turkey on Wednesday recovered the cockpit voice and flight data recorders from a jet crash that killed eight people, including western Libya's military chief, while efforts to retrieve the victims' remains were still underway, Turkey's interior minister said.

The private jet carrying Gen. Muhammad Ali Ahmad al-Haddad, four other military officials and three crew members crashed on Tuesday, after taking off from Turkey's capital, Ankara, killing everyone on board. Libyan officials said that the cause of the crash was a technical malfunction on the plane. The high-level Libyan delegation was on its way back to Tripoli after holding defense talks in Ankara aimed at boosting military cooperation between the two countries.

Turkish Interior Minister Ali Yerlikaya told journalists at the site of the crash that wreckage was scattered across an area covering 3 square kilometers (more than a square mile), complicating recovery efforts. Authorities from the Turkish forensic medicine authority were working to recover and identify the remains, he said.

A 22-person delegation — including five family members — arrived from Libya early on Wednesday to assist in the investigation, he said. Tripoli-based Libyan Prime Minister Abdul-Hamid Dbeibah confirmed the deaths on Tuesday, describing the crash on Facebook as a "tragic accident" and a "great loss" for Libya. Al-Hadad was the top military commander in western Libya and played a crucial role in the ongoing, UN-brokered efforts to unify Libya's military, which has split, much like the nation's other institutions.

Ukraine okay with demilitarised zone in Donbas area to end war with Russia

KYIV

UKRAINIAN President Volodymyr Zelenskyy told reporters that he would be willing to withdraw troops from the country's eastern industrial heartland as part of a plan to end Russia's war, if Moscow also pulls back and the area becomes a demilitarised, free economic zone monitored by international forces.

The proposal marks the clearest indication yet of the compromises the Ukrainian leader would be willing to make on the Donbas region, control of which is a major sticking point in peace negotiations. A similar arrangement could be possible for the area around the Zaporizhzhia nuclear power plant, which is currently under Russian control, Zelenskyy said. He said that any peace plan would need to be put to a referendum.

Zelenskyy spoke to reporters Tuesday to describe a 20-point overarching plan that negotiators from Ukraine and the US hammered out in Florida in recent days, though he said that many details are still being discussed. Russia has given no indication that it will agree to any kind of withdrawal of its troops from land it has seized. In fact, Moscow has insisted that Ukraine relinquish the remaining territory it still holds in the Donbas — an ultimatum that Ukraine has rejected. Russia has captured most of Luhansk and about 70% of Donetsk — the two areas that make up the Donbas.

Asked about the plan, Kremlin spokesperson Dmitry Peskov said Wednesday that Moscow would set out its position based on information received by Russian presidential envoy Kirill Dmitriev, who met with US envoys in Florida over the weekend. Peskov declined to share further details. American negotiators have engaged in a series of talks with Ukraine and Russia separately since US President Donald Trump presented a plan to end the war last month — a proposal widely see as favoring Moscow, which invaded its neighbor nearly four years ago. Since then, Ukraine and its allies in Europe have worked to pull the plan closer to Kyiv's position.

Zelenskyy said that figuring out control of the Donbas region is "the most difficult point." Meanwhile, on the Zaporizhzhia nuclear power plant, the US has proposed creating a consortium with Ukraine and Russia, in which each party would have an equal stake. Zelenskyy countered with a proposal for joint venture between the US and Ukraine, in which the Americans would be able to decide how to distribute their share, including giving some of it to Russia. Zelenskyy acknowledged that the U.S. has not yet accepted Ukraine's counterproposals. "We did not reach a consensus with the American side on the territory of the Donetsk region and on the ZNPP," Zelenskyy said, using an acronym for the power plant in Zaporizhzhia. "But we have significantly brought most of the positions closer together. In principle, all other consensus in this agreement has been found between us and them." AP

Russian-backed court jails Colombian man for fighting for Ukraine

MOSCOW: A Russian-backed court in occupied eastern Ukraine has sentenced a Colombian national to 19 years in prison for fighting for Kyiv's army. Russia's Prosecutor General said the Supreme Court in the Russian-controlled Donetsk region convicted Oscar Mauricio Blanco Lopez, 42, prosecuting him as a mercenary rather than a prisoner of war under the Geneva Convention. He was captured in December 2025 after joining Ukrainian forces in May 2024.

Pro-Russian hackers claim cyberattack on French postal service

PARIS : A pro-Russian hacking group claimed responsibility for a cyberattack that disrupted package deliveries at La Poste days before Christmas. The Paris prosecutor said the attack was claimed by Noname057, prompting France's intelligence agency DGSI to take over the probe. The DDoS attack knocked central systems offline, affecting parcel tracking and online payments. France says such incidents form part of Russia's wider "hybrid warfare" campaign.

Bharti Ent, Warburg to buy 49% in Haier India

Haier to retain 49% stake, co's India management team to hold 2%

After completion of the transaction, Bharti Enterprises and Warburg Pincus will collectively own a 49% stake in Haier India

APART FROM BHARTI ENTERPRISES, OTHER MAJOR INDIAN CONGLOMERATES WERE ALSO IN THE RACE FOR THE CHINESE COMPANY

- RIL held early-stage discussions, while Burman family and Puneet Dalmia explored bids via private equity partnerships
- Haier India manufactures and markets air conditioners, refrigerators, televisions, washing machines, and kitchen appliances
- The group currently operates 2 mfg facilities in Greater Noida and Pune, and plans to set up a third unit in west or south India

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

SUNIL MITTAL-led Bharti Enterprises, along with private equity firm Warburg Pincus, on Wednesday announced an investment in home appliance brand Haier India, a subsidiary of China's Haier Group.

Following the completion of the transaction, Bharti Enterprises and Warburg Pincus will collectively own 49% stake in Haier India, while Haier Group will retain 49%. The remaining 2% will be held by Haier India's management team.

The current announcement brings an end to the year-long suspense over who gets a pie of Haier India, the third-largest consumer durables company in the country. Apart from Bharti Enterprises, other major Indian conglomerates were also in the race for the Chinese company. Reliance Industries held early-stage discussions, while the Burman family (Dabur) and Puneet Dalmia (Dalmia Bharat) reportedly explored bids through private equity partnerships. Singapore's Temasek Holdings and GIC, along with Abu Dhabi's Mubadala Investment Co., showed preliminary interest in the appliance giant. Global firms TPG Capital, Bain Capital, and Goldman Sachs (partnering with the Amit Jatia family) were also linked to the competitive bidding process.

Haier India manufactures and markets air conditioners, refrigerators, televisions, washing machines, and kitchen appliances. The group currently operates two manufacturing facilities in Greater Noida and Pune, and plans to set up a third unit in western or southern India. Over the past seven years, the company has recorded a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of nearly 25%, one of the highest in the industry.

In a recent interview with The New Indian Express (TNIE), NS Satish, President, Haier Appliances India, said the company is expanding its manufacturing footprint in the country with an investment of ₹3,500 crore over the next three to four years. He also said that the company currently holds a 14% market share in refrigerators, 14% in washing machines, and 8% in air conditioners. For the next financial year, Haier is targeting revenue of ₹14,500 crore and aims to grow across all product categories.

The stake sale is significant given the Indian government has shown its unwillingness to clear Chinese investment proposals unless they form a joint venture with a majority Indian partner.

In 2025, Indian electronics manufacturers are increasingly forming strategic joint ventures with Chinese firms to strengthen local electronics and automotive supply chains. For instance, Dixon Technologies is leading this trend, having recently acquired a stake in Ismartu India (a subsidiary of China's Transsion Technology) and partnered with HKC Corporation for display module production. Dixon is also collaborating with Vivo to expand smartphone manufacturing under a new JV structure.

RIL gets US relief for Rosneft oil cargoes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RELIANCE Industries Ltd (RIL) has obtained a concession from the United States to receive oil cargoes supplied by Russia's Rosneft, which has been sanctioned by the US government.

The company said it has been granted permission to import cargoes that were contracted before the sanctions were announced. The cargoes came in December before the extended deadline. In October, the US imposed sanctions on Rosneft and Lukoil, allowing companies until November 21 to wind down transactions with the two Russian energy firms. Reliance has a long-term pact with Rosneft to buy 500,000 barrels per day (bpd) of Russian crude for its 1.4 million bpd refining complex in Jamnagar, the world's largest. "These are pre-existing transactions that are being wound down in a sanctions-compliant manner," said RBI spokesperson.

Separately, the European Union has said from January 21 it will not accept fuel produced at refineries that received or processed Russian crude within 60 days prior to the bill-of-lading date. As per an agency report, citing trade flows data from Kpler, Reliance has received 15 cargoes of Russian crude from Rosneft since November 22. The report added that Reliance loaded the final cargo under its Rosneft supply deal on November 12. Any Russian oil arriving after November 20 will be processed at Reliance's India-focused refinery, allowing the company to continue fuel exports to the EU from its 704,000 bpd export-oriented refinery.

Reliance is also scheduled to receive one cargo each of Russian oil in December and January from trader RusExport, according to Kpler data.

India became the world's largest buyer of seaborne Russian crude following Moscow's invasion of Ukraine, but has faced increasing pressure from Washington to curb such imports. India's Russian oil imports in December are expected to average between 1.2 million and 1.5 million bpd.

IndusInd gets SFIO notice over accounting fraud

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

IndusInd Bank, which came under fire from regulators and probe agencies since March when it had admitted to a ₹2,000 crore accounting fraud in forex trading book, on Wednesday said it has received a second notice from the Serious Fraud Investigation Office (SFIO).

On December 18 the bank had received a notice from the federal agency. In an exchange filing, the Hinduja group promoted bank said, "In furtherance to the intimation dated December 18, 2025, wherein we had informed that matters relating to accounting of internal derivative trades, certain unsubstantiated balances in other assets and other liabilities accounts and microfinance interest income/fee income were reported to the SFIO on June 2, 2025."

RBI postpones Jan 3 rollout of Phase 2 of faster cheque clearance sine die

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE Reserve Bank (RBI) has deferred the rollout of the phase 2 of its faster cheque clearance framework, which was scheduled to come into effect from January 3, 2026.

Under the proposed framework banks were to approve/reject cheques within three hours of receiving them. The faster cheque clearing system, with nationwide uniformity and much shorter time lag, was rolled out from October 4 this year in a phased manner, allowing credit/debit into/from an account within a few hours.

As per the RBI, the new cheque clearing allows banks a continuous, time-bound processing of the instrument. This significant upgrade means funds could reach accounts in just hours, a major improvement over the current one-two business days. The new system not only made clearing speed uniform nationwide, it also made tracking the status of cheques much simpler and more transparent apart from reducing settlement risks for banks and improves overall efficiency.

With the delayed rollout, banks have more breathing space to get them prepared for the changes. But this does not mean, cheques would take much longer as the phase 1 rollout, which is in place, is faster from the past system where it used to take days.

In a direction issued on Wednesday, the RBI said the second phase of the continuous clearing and settlement (CCS) framework has been postponed until further notice. Phase 1, implemented from October 4, will continue to operate as usual.

However, the regulator has not stated why the postponement or when the revised timeline will come into force saying "implementation of phase 2 is being postponed until further notice, to allow more time for banks to streamline their operation," is all what the notification said.

Under phase 1, banks must confirm cheques by 7 pm; otherwise, the cheque will be auto-approved.

BP to offload 65% stake in Castrol to US-based Stonepeak for $10.1 billion

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BP on Wednesday announced the sale of a 65% shareholding in Castrol to US-based Stonepeak at an enterprise value of $10.1 billion.

In a statement, the company said the transaction is likely to result in net proceeds of about $6.0 billion for BP. This includes $0.8 billion from the prepayment of future dividend income over the short to medium term on BP's retained 35% stake, along with other adjustments.

A major portion of Castrol's JV minority interests relates to its shareholding in the publicly listed Castrol India. Upon completion of the transaction, a new joint venture will be incorporated with Stonepeak holding 65% stake and BP retaining the remaining 35%. The implied equity value of Castrol is $8.0 billion, after deducting JV minority interests of $1.8 billion and other debt-like obligations of $0.3 billion.

Following a two-year lock-up period, BP will have the option to sell its remaining 35% stake in Castrol. The transaction is likely to be completed by the end of 2026, subject to regulatory approvals. "We concluded a thorough strategic review of Castrol that generated extensive interest and resulted in sale of a majority interest to Stonepeak. The transaction allows us to realise value for shareholders, generating proceeds while continuing to benefit from Castrol's growth momentum. With this, we have completed over half of our targeted $20 billion divestment, with proceeds set to strengthen BP's balance sheet," said Carol Howle, Interim CEO of BP.

Gold, silver witness best yearly gains since 1979

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

PRECIOUS metals are on a song again and are heading for their best annual returns since 1979, scaling new peaks globally as also in the domestic markets on safe haven demand and expectations of more rate cuts by the US Fed.

Global instability arising from the Iranian revolution had pushed gold prices dramatically in 1979, from around $250/ounce (28.35 grams) from the start of the year to over $650 by December. Indian prices had then touched (for 24K) ₹937/10 grams from around ₹685 in 1978—or an exceptional 74%.

So far this year, gold has soared over 70% in dollar terms to $4,550 per ounce and silver cross $72 (up 150%), fuelled by anticipation of further Fed easing and fresh geopolitical tension arising between the US and Venezuela, where the US has blockaded oil tankers, adding to the metals' haven appeal as they head for its best annual performance since 1979.

In rupee terms, both these metals have rallied much higher than the 1979 rally, with gold scaling past 85% and the white metal jumping over 150%.

Gold prices are skyrocketing as the US Fed keeps pumping liquidity. Another reason is the continuing aggressive central banks buying worried that higher Japanese interest rates could roil the US economy

Surendra Mehta, national secretary, Indian Bullion & Jewellers Association

The global rally where gold has crossed the sensitive $4,500 mark with wide margin scaling past $4,550 per ounce (28.35 grams), and silver crossing $72 an ounce has the gold futures with February expiry on the MCX hitting a fresh lifetime high of Rs 1,38,676/10 grams on Wednesday. The futures with April and June expiries are also at fresh all-time highs of ₹1,42,125/10 grams and ₹1,45,579/10 grams earlier Wednesday. Similarly, silver has crossed the ₹2,20,000 mark and was trading at ₹2,23,304 per kg on Wednesday.

In the physical market, 24K gold quoted at a new record of ₹1,36,150/10 g, up ₹1,970, while silver jumped ₹5,000 to ₹2,31,000/kg.

"Gold prices are skyrocketing as the US Fed keeps pumping liquidity. Another reason is the continuing aggressive central banks buying worried that higher Japanese interest rates could roil the US economy. Silver is rising as paper silver short sellers are converting to physical gold," as per Surendra Mehta, national secretary of Indian Bullion & Jewellers Association. Meanwhile, the sudden spurt in prices has had the shares of leading gold loan focused non-banks soaring over 6% on Wednesday.

While Manappuram Finance rose 6% to hit a fresh 52-week high of ₹313.8, IIFL Finance rose 4% to a 52-week high of ₹597.70 and the industry leader Muthoot Finance rose over 2% to hit a fresh 52-week high of ₹3,890. Rising gold prices are good for financiers as higher prices increase the value of the collateral, reducing the risk of defaults, as the collateral becomes more valuable relative to the loan amount (which is capped at 75% of the price of the metal) issued against it.

Demat account additions slow down in 2025

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

WITH the equity market facing volatility, the addition of new demat accounts by brokerages slowed down sharply, adding only 1.51 crore new investor sign-ups in 2025 so far.

The outgoing year marks the slowest pace of demat account openings in three years. As per the latest data from the NSE, only 1.51 crore new demat accounts were opened so far this year by brokerages, compared to 2.36 crore fresh accounts added in 2024 and 1.6 crore in 2023.

With this, NSE's total registered investor base stood at about 12.4 crore as of December 19, up from 10.89 crore in 2024.

As of November 19, 2025, the BSE reported having around 20.5 crore demat accounts. However, this is not exclusively on this bourse and thus could have overlap with the NSE. The exact number of unique active investors on the BSE alone is not publicly disclosed.

Digital spendings, house rents to get better representation in new CPI series

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

CONSUMER Price Index (CPI), a measure of the retail inflation, is undergoing an overhaul after more than a decade, with several changes to be adopted in the methodology.

Changes in methodology will include reshaping price coverage, data sources, and dissemination. The changes are aimed at making inflation readings more reflective of how Indians spend today, including on digital and e-commerce platforms. The new CPI series is expected to come from 2026.

One of the primary changes is the revision of base year. Till now for calculation of CPI, 2012 was the base year, which has now been revised to 2024. Another key shift is the wider price coverage. Under the new series, price data points will be gathered from 1,395 urban markets spread across 434 towns and 1,465 villages. This will include over 500 locations in both urban and rural areas as compared with the 2012 series.

In addition to price data collected from physical outlets as being done in current series, prices are being collected from e-commerce platforms in 12 selected cities

MoSPI statement

With a broader geographic footprint, regional price variations are likely to be captured better. For the first time, CPI compilation will draw prices beyond physical stores and will have data from e-commerce platforms. "In addition to the price data collected from physical outlets as being done in the current series, prices are also being collected from e-commerce platforms in 12 selected cities having a population of over 25 lakh as per the 2011 Census," MoSPI stated.

The housing component, specifically, the house rent index—has been a long-standing concern.

Previously, different methods were used at different stages, leading to a sharp upward shift in rent inflation in 2013. Changes in house rent allowance (HRA) linked to salary revisions was often projected as rent inflation even when actual rents were unchanged, while reallocations to lower salaries created the impression of falling rents. The new series aims to correct these.

The two senior India batters help Mumbai and Delhi defeat their respective opponents on Day 1 of Vijay Hazare Trophy

Back with bang: Rohit and Kohli smash hundreds

Both Rohit Sharma (L) and Virat Kohli (R) scored centuries on Wednesday | PTI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

WORLD No 1 and 2 ODI batters were returning to their respective state teams for List A matches after years and it was enough to generate hype and hoopla around the domestic fixtures, which usually go unnoticed amid the packed international schedule. Rohit Sharma, the top ODI batter, and Virat Kohli, only a rung below him in the chart, however, were around 2000kms apart from each other and playing in contrasting ambiences when they took the field for their respective teams on the opening day of the Vijay Hazare Trophy — the premier domestic 50-over tournament of the country.

For the former India captain Sharma, 20000-plus people turned up at the Sawai Mansingh Stadium in Jaipur with fans reportedly sitting on the edge of the Rajasthan Sports Council building for the Group C Mumbai vs Sikkim match. King Kohli, who like Sharma is used to mass adulation and venues reverberating with his chants, on the contrary had to perform his artistry against Andhra in an empty BCCI Centre of Excellence Ground 1 on the outskirts of Bengaluru with only a posse of cops apart from players and administrators in attendance. As a policy matter, fans are not allowed at the BCCI CoE Grounds so it was during the Group D fixture on Wednesday. It was, however, completely different from Kohli's return to the Ranji Trophy after years of hiatus when he drew more than 15000 people to the Arun Jaitley Stadium in New Delhi earlier this year.

Sharma's last match in the competition was in 2018 when he played for Mumbai against Hyderabad in the semifinal at the MA Chidambaram Stadium in Chennai. Kohli's last match in the tournament came in 2010 at the Tata Energy Research Institute Oval in Gurgaon when he captained Delhi against Services. His last List A match was in September 2013 when he captained Delhi against India Blue in the final of the NKP Salve Challenger Trophy.

The duo might have played under contrasting conditions but the outcome was the same — both hammered a century each to help their sides win their respective contests. Sharma slammed 155 off just 94 balls that included 18 fours and nine sixes while Kohli scored 131 from 101 balls — an innings which was laced with 14 fours and three sixes.

The hundred was Sharma's second in the seven one-dayers he played including three ODIs each against Australia and South Africa. The Mumbai batter has also scored three fifties during this period. Kohli, meanwhile, has scored a century more and a half-century less than his India teammate in as many matches. It was also his third hundred in the last four matches with the previous two coming back-to-back against South Africa highlighting his rich vein of form.

For the players, who have played more than 1000 international matches so far with each of them logging 500 plus games each, the domestic tournament is important more than ever especially as they had retired from the remaining two formats and eyeing a slot in the team for the 2027 ODI World Cup. Sharma will once again be seen in action on Friday when Mumbai take on Uttarakhand at the same venue. The same will be Kohli's story as he will be out for Delhi playing against Gujarat.

Gurjapneet helps TN get off to winning start

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

GURJAPNEET Singh's 4/32 and half centuries by N Jagadeesan (67) and Pradosh Ranjan Paul (73) paved the way for Tamil Nadu to beat Pondicherry by 101 runs in the Vijay Hazare tournament played at Ahmedabad on Wednesday.

For a side that was struggling to put across a competitive XI in both Ranji and Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy, TN breathed a sigh of relief getting off to a good start in the 50-over format. Gurjapneet, Sachin Rathi and Sunny Sandhu made their debut for Tamil Nadu on Wednesday. However, Gurjapneet has played two List 'A' matches earlier in Jan 2025 for India 'A'.

"I am happy to start the VHT on a winning note. We worked on getting the combination right and I am glad we got the right guys at the right position and thus we could post a challenging total of 300 plus. When you have runs on the board, automatically things fall in place," said M Venkataramana, head coach of Tamil Nadu. "With a couple of guys making their debut and a young side in general, it was a creditable show," he added. Put into bat, Tamil Nadu got off to an excellent start with B Sai Sudharsan (48) and Jagadeesan going hammer and tongs against the Pondicherry attack. The duo raised 83 runs for the first wicket in 14.1 overs that set the tone for the middle order to exploit. "It was imperative that we get a good start. At Ahmedabad, early in the morning the moisture does help the bowlers in the first hour or so as it (game) is an early start. Both Sai Sudharsan and Jags played out the initial overs with caution and also kept the score board moving. The left-right combination worked for us and set up a good platform for the middle order to exploit," insisted Venkataramana.

Pradosh changed gears effortlessly and made 73 off just 79 balls. This was his maiden 50-plus score, his previous best being 31. "Pradosh is technically a sound batter who can accelerate at will. Right from the Buchi Babu he has been among runs. I Just told him to play his natural game and not think too much about the format and change his style of play. Pradosh played to the merit of the ball and had a good partnership with Jagadeesan. These partnerships helped us go past the 300-run mark," pointed out the former India off spinner. Chasing 311 for a win, Pondicherry started in earnest with N Shyam (60) and V Bharadwaj posting 67 for the first wicket. Once Bhardwaj fell to the pace of Sonu Yadav, wickets started to fall at regular intervals. Gurjapneet, fresh from his India A, stint gave breakthroughs at regular intervals to earn the player of the match award on debut.

Of trusting process & being vocal: Lovlina ready for 2026

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

WITH just nine minutes of ring time at the international level this year, Lovlina Borgohain was predominantly in the background this year. But the Olympic medallist, who made a quiet exit during the World Championships at Liverpool in September, is calm as they come. The period of inactivity might have hurt her reputation but she is far from worried. Off the ring, it was a significant year for the soft-spoken pugilist from Assam, a year that she set in motion her dreams of establishing a platform for young aspirants in her hometown by launching her academy — Lovlina Borgohain Boxing Academy in Barchandra, North Guwahati.

In doing so, the Khel Ratna Award winner has learnt invaluable lessons and she is naturally stoked to make notable strides in her life. Acknowledging that laying the foundation for the said academy had forced her to cut down on her training, she is now geared up to put everything aside and focus on her boxing ahead of 2026. Lovlina's immediate challenge will be the national championships, which is scheduled to be held from January 5 to 10. In a freewheeling chat with this daily, the 28-year-old spoke about her dreams, both on and off the ring and she also touched upon the challenges she has faced and the significance of speaking up for oneself. Excerpts...

■ You were largely on the sidelines this year, how would you sum up 2025?

It was a good year. I had certain dreams, I wanted to open an academy and I worked on that. It was a special moment, starting the academy. I have been training alongside too as there are big competitions coming up. The year 2026 will be vital as there are competitions like Asian Games, CWG and Asian Championships. Before that, there's a national meet and I'm preparing for that. I have plenty of hopes for the New Year. When you take up more responsibilities, it gets more exciting as you get a chance to grow as a person. My dream was to lay a platform for youngsters from the Northeast and now that process has begun. Now, there's another academy (international standard facility in Palasbari, Guwahati) coming up soon, it will be bigger and better. It will be a tie-up with the Assam government and it will begin soon. The current academy is much smaller. The one that will come up will be like the Centre of Excellence. At the moment, we have around 60-plus students.

■ On what inspired her to do what she has been doing — looking to lay a platform for young kids

As a sportsperson, most of us tend to think we can evolve to become a coach and impart lessons. But what I feel is better is that I can become a coach but I want to build a platform where it's possible to generate plenty of employment and a lot of people can be involved in sports. I also wanted to work on the grassroots and this is achievable through this (academy). Of course, I have my Olympic dream. That is also in my mind. So the upcoming year is going to be very important.

■ On her targets inside the ring going forward

One thing is clear, when I'm boxing, I'll have to leave everything behind. I have to focus on my own game as well. Hence, I had been looking to build a strong team. If I'm in the camp, I'll be 100 per cent committed to my game. I can't do two things at once. I'm a firm believer that we can only focus on one thing. My big targets as of now are the CWG and Asian Games. When we take a break, we tend to lose muscles and the strength tends to go down in the process. So I need to dedicate some time to regain my muscles. It generally takes time to build muscles. Otherwise, I have the experience and have learnt to handle many other aspects of the sport. But still you have to keep learning. Since I have started just now, I'm mainly looking at strength and endurance. When the camp begins, I'll look at other aspects.

■ On her mantra for success

I have always focussed in the process. Be it the Tokyo Olympics or Paris Games, I always trusted the process. I set a goal, but the process that I follow in order to achieve the goal is more important for me. I have always looked to improve each new day. This process is my hunger that keeps me going. Goal and performance will be visible eventually, process is of utmost importance.

■ On her coaches and her equation with them

I have had so many coaches over the years and I have learnt a lot from each one of them. For me, I find it difficult to operate without a coach. I prefer to work under someone's guidance. For now, I'm training with Pranamika (Boro) madam, she has a good level of experience and she understands me a great deal. And I think it's important for the coach to understand their students. Sandhya ma'am (former coach Sandhya Gurung) used to understand me very well. Now I have that comfort zone. In the coming days, if it's possible, she'll hopefully be around. Or else, the foreign coach (Santiago Nieva) will also be there. When I won a medal in Tokyo, he was there as a high performance director. I have a good equation with him.

■ On importance of taking stand for oneself (there are instances when Lovlina has raised her voice when she felt there's injustice)

You have to fight for yourself and I'll keep doing that. The system is such that if you don't fight for yourself, nobody will come to take a stand for you. I'll always be ready to take a stand for myself and people around me. Earlier, to make a simple conversation I used to think at least ten times. Certain situations have taught me. If I have aspirations to become a leader, if I'm thinking of employing many people through the academy, then I have to learn to take a stand for them too. It's easy to manage your own responsibilities but to take responsibility for many, it will be highly important.

Distressed Eng look for salvation

Having lost the series already, England face Australia in Melbourne in the fourth Ashes Test starting Friday. A look at some key talking points...

BEACH, BOOZE & INQUIRIES

The moment the urn was lost, stories of how England unravelled started coming out. From drinking problems to off-field behaviour to the reported 'stag-do' at Noosa, multiple issues have come to light and the ECB has launched an inquiry. However, Ben Stokes have thrown his weight behind the players to come out and perform on Boxing Day.

SEEKING CHRISTMAS MIRACLE

After four years of building up to this series, England have spiralled to lose the Ashes in 11 days. As things stand, a lot of jobs are on the line including ECB chief Rob Key, coach Brendon McCullum and captain Stokes. Only way for them to survive to put up a performance and give people back home a win to smile about during the festive season.

INJURIES GALORE

As it is often the case, a five-Test series tends to take its toll in terms of injuries. This one has been no different. England's Jofra Archer joined Nathan Lyon to be ruled out of the series. Pat Cummins will miss the Melbourne Test. While Steve Smith is expected to come back and lead, it remains to be seen who keeps the place and who misses out.

Hockey star Hardik in line for Khel Ratna

AGENCIES @ New Delhi

INDIA men's hockey team vice-captain Hardik Singh was the sole recommendation for this year's Major Dhyan Chand Khel Ratna honour, while teenaged chess star Divya Deshmukh and trailblazing decathlete Tejaswin Shankar were among the 24 picked for the Arjuna awards by the selection committee here on Wednesday.

The 27-year-old Hardik has been India's mid-field mainstay and was a part of both the 2021 Tokyo and 2024 Paris Olympic Games medal-clinching teams. This year, he was a part of India's Asia Cup gold-winning side. In a first, a Yogasan athlete, Aarti Pal, has been recommended for the Arjuna award, five years after it was formally recognised by the Sports Ministry, a well-placed source told PTI. Aarti is the reigning national and Asian champion in the discipline that would be a demonstration sport at the 2026 Asian Games. Twenty one other names have been finalised for the Arjuna by the awards selection panel after a meeting on Wednesday. The panel features, among others, Indian Olympic Association (IOA) Vice President Gagan Narang, former badminton player Aparna Popat and former hockey player M M Somaya.

After long injury lay-off, veteran Savita ready for 'new chapter'

CHANDRA PRABHU @ Chennai

AS she took the posts in an exhibition hockey match at the Ramachandra Institute grounds here, one could see the joy in veteran Indian goalkeeper Savita Punia's face. She suffered an ankle injury in the FIH Women's League earlier this year as India's campaign went from bad to worse and they were relegated to the Nations Cup.

Coming back from the long injury lay-off, the 35-year-old, who has made match-winning saves and won laurels for India in her career spanning 16 years, says a new chapter has begun in her long hockey career. "This was my first surgery in my career, which was difficult," she said on the sidelines of Soorma Hockey Club's "Sitaare aur Soorma" event held in Chennai on Wednesday.

Rehabilitation period can test an athlete to the core. For Savita, three words — trust, discipline and the right motivation — got her through those difficult periods. "When you go to surgery, you have to set a mindset of what is next. Whether you are on the field or in rehab, you need discipline. If that is there, then it is very easy to come back," the 35-year-old said. Amidst the pangs of injury and the consequences of missing out on international duty, Savita had doubts over her future with the Soorma HC. The club allayed the fear as they retained her the Hockey India League mini-auction held in September. "It truly motivated me. When there are thoughts in your mind that whether you will be able to play or not (after the injury) you get the message from the team that you are continuing, so, what better motivation than that?," she explained. She recovered at the Inspire Institute of Sport in Bellary, under the supervision of strength and conditioning coach Wayne Lombard.

Savita Punia (3rd from L) | EXPRESS

Off the field, the injury could have posed challenges in her personal life but her in-laws — Savita got married to NRI Ankit Balhara early in 2023 — stood behind her like a rock. "Those are small things that lift you up. Sometimes you struggle a lot being a girl. 'Okay, I'm married now, what do I do?' But you get support from your in-laws. I am blessed with such a family who have a free mind," she explained. On the field, her absence cost Indian women team dear as a dismal show in the FIH League meant they could not secure direct qualification for the next year's World Cup scheduled in Belgium and the Netherlands. Six months on, she is back on her feet, and hopes to be a part of the team ahead of the "packed schedule" next year. India are slated to play in the crucial World Cup qualifier in Hyderabad in March, in addition to both Asian and Commonwealth Games. This way, playing for Soorma HC and gaining match fitness may help her get through the busy year.

As she approaches the twilight of her career, she hinted that she would take up coaching opportunities if one comes her way. "As an athlete, I have been on the field for many years. So that will stay with me, If I get a chance to help the team in hockey, I am always ready," she said.

Which calisthenics exercises help us get strong?

Push ups, pulling, planks, lunges, squats, bridges and dips are the usual calisthenics exercises. But exercise under the supervision of a trained coach to prevent injuries.

- Push up is the foundation exercise. Start with incline push ups and then work toward full push ups, close-grip, and eventually, pike or handstand variations. Pull ups help build upper body strength. Doorframe rows, table rows, or resistance band rows, all count.

ASK AN XPERT

- Here is the progression for squats: Air squats, narrow-stance, assisted pistols and full pistols. Lunges, split squats, forward, reverse, Bulgarian squats help build unilateral strength.
- Glute bridges, single leg bridges and hip thrusts help build a strong posterior chain, protect the lower back and improve overall power. Planks and hollow body holds make every other lift stronger. Dips are powerhouse movements for upper body pushing strength and can be done using two sturdy chairs.

FITBIT

WHY REST IS THE MOST UNDERRATED PART OF FITNESS

In a culture that celebrates hustle and constant effort, rest is often mistaken for weakness. We admire packed schedules, intense workouts, and the ability to push through exhaustion. But when it comes to health and performance, doing more isn't always doing better. In fact, progress often stalls not because of a lack of effort, but because of a lack of recovery.

Many people train consistently, eat mindfully and stay disciplined, yet feel persistently fatigued, sore or stuck at a plateau. Injuries become frequent, sleep feels restless, and motivation dips. What's usually missing isn't another workout, it's intentional rest.

WHAT REALLY HAPPENS WHEN YOU RECOVER

Exercise creates stress on the body. Muscles experience tiny tears, the nervous system is activated and energy reserves are depleted. Recovery is the phase where the body adapts to this stress, rebuilding muscle fibres, restoring hormonal balance and strengthening resilience.

- Muscles rebuild during rest, not workouts: Strength and endurance improve when the body is given time to repair and adapt after training.
- The nervous system needs balance: Intense activity activates the body's 'fight or flight' response. Rest helps shift it back into a 'repair and restore' state, reducing inflammation and stress.
- Sleep drives recovery: Deep sleep is when growth and repair hormones peak, supporting muscle health, metabolism, and immune function.

HOW TO BUILD RECOVERY INTO DAILY LIFE

- Treat rest as part of training: Plan rest days and lighter sessions with the same intention as workouts.
- Prioritise quality sleep: Consistent sleep schedules and screen-free evenings improve recovery outcomes.
- Use gentle movement wisely: Stretching, slow walks and mindful breathing ease muscle tension and calm the nervous system.
- Fuel recovery with nutrition and hydration: Adequate protein, minerals, and fluids support tissue repair and energy balance.

Ignoring rest doesn't just slow progress, it increases risk of burnout, recurring injuries, poor sleep quality and mood disturbances. Chronic fatigue and constant soreness are often signs that the body hasn't had the chance to recalibrate. Rest isn't time lost, it is when gains are secured. Sustainable fitness and long-term health depend on knowing when to pause. Those who recover well don't just perform better; they stay healthier, more resilient and consistent over time.

CELEBRATING MINDFULLY

With the holiday season bringing late nights and delicious indulgences with it, here's how you can stay healthy without guilt casting a shadow over your festive spirit

EDWINA RAJ

THE festive season arrives with an attractive symphony of celebration, tables loaded with delicacies, glasses raised in toast and an atmosphere that practically demands we let our hair down. It's a time when the usual restraints loosen and indulgence becomes not just acceptable but expected. Yet, as we navigate this season of abundance, the challenge lies in honouring both our desire to celebrate and our commitment to wellbeing.

The pattern is familiar to most of us: consecutive days of rich meals, late nights punctuated by multiple drinks and a general suspension of our regular health routines. What begins as a single festive meal often cascades into weeks of continuous indulgence. While there's genuine joy in these celebrations, the aftermath of sluggishness, digestive discomfort, weight gain and depleted energy can cast a shadow well into the new year. The solution, however, isn't abstinence or guilt-ridden restriction. Rather, it's about cultivating a more mindful approach to celebration that allows us to participate fully without compromising our health.

Begin by reframing your relationship with festive food and drink. Instead of viewing every gathering as an opportunity to consume everything available, approach each occasion with intention. Ask yourself what you're genuinely excited to taste rather than eating reflexively. This conscious selection allows you to savour the experiences that truly matter while naturally moderating overall intake.

Hydration becomes particularly crucial during this period. Alcohol is dehydrating, and rich foods demand additional water for proper digestion. Make it a practice to alternate alcoholic beverages with water and begin each day with adequate hydration before the festivities commence. This simple habit can significantly reduce hangovers, support digestion and help regulate appetite.

Don't abandon physical activity entirely. While your regular gym routine might be disrupted, incorporating movement into your day, whether a brisk morning walk, dancing at parties, or even taking the stairs, helps offset excess calories and maintains metabolic momentum. Exercise also serves as a powerful stress reliever during what can be an emotionally intense season.

Regarding meals, employ the principle of balance rather than deprivation. If you know an indulgent dinner awaits, opt for lighter, protein-rich meals earlier in the day. Include vegetables wherever possible and don't skip meals in anticipation of a feast, as this often leads to overeating. When you do indulge, eat slowly and pay attention to your body's satiety signals.

Sleep, though often sacrificed during festivities, remains non-negotiable for health. Late nights should be the exception, not the rule. Adequate rest supports immune function, regulates hunger hormones and provides the resilience needed to genuinely enjoy social engagements.

Perhaps most importantly, release the perfectionist mindset. If you overindulge one evening, simply return to your healthy habits the next day without self-recrimination. The festive season is finite and occasional excess within a generally healthy lifestyle poses minimal long-term risk.

The essence of sustainable celebration lies in presence rather than excess. When we're truly present, tasting each bite, engaging meaningfully in conversation, feeling the music – we often find that we need less to feel satisfied. The festive season offers us abundance, certainly, but its greatest gift may be the opportunity to discover that wellbeing and celebration need not be at odds. They can, in fact, enhance one another when approached with awareness and care.

TEA MUCH

Experts explain how excessive tea intake can unsettle the mind and disturb sleep

DARSHITA JAIN

FOR many, chai is a daily comfort that sets the rhythm of the day. Yet doctors say that when those comforting cups become too many, the effects on mood and mental health can quietly build up. Growing concerns around caffeine sensitivity, anxiety and sleep troubles have prompted specialists to explain why excessive tea consumption may be more harmful than most people realise.

Speaking about how tea affects the brain, Dr K Krishna Prabhakar, director-department of internal medicine, says that the stimulating effect begins at a chemical level. "Caffeine in tea blocks adenosine receptors, which normally promote calm and sleepiness. This leads to increased alertness and heart rate. While moderate caffeine can improve focus and mood, excessive intake may cause anxiety, nervousness, and sleep problems, worsening mood disorders in vulnerable people."

Looking at the body's varied response, Dr Krupan Kumar, consultant internal medicine, says sensitivity plays a big role in how tea affects each person. Speaking about why some people react strongly even to one cup, he shares, "Some people are genetically slow caffeine metabolisers. They feel jittery even after a single cup. Those with existing anxiety disorders, thyroid issues, or sleep problems are also more reactive." He adds that even a small rise in adrenaline can unsettle a sensitive nervous system.

When it comes to how much tea is safe, Dr Prabhakar provides a general guideline, "The safe caffeine limit for adults is about 400mg per day, roughly equivalent to 4-6 cups of black tea. Pregnant women, adolescents, and people with heart or anxiety conditions should consume less – generally under 200mg daily."

Dr Kumar shares a similar perspective but keeps the recommended quantity more conservative. "There isn't strong evidence that age or gender drastically changes the limit, but people with lower body weight, the elderly, and adolescents may feel the effects with smaller amounts," he notes, adding that most adults should stay within 2-3 cups daily to avoid overstimulation.

Both doctors agree that dependence on tea is real but often unnoticed. Highlighting how suddenly stopping can feel, Dr Prabhakar says, "Regular excessive tea drinking can cause physical caffeine dependence. Withdrawal symptoms include headache, irritability, fatigue, and low mood." Dr Kumar notes that hydration and slower reduction help ease discomfort.

Warning signs that the body is overwhelmed are not always dramatic. Pointing out early red flags, Dr Prabhakar says, "Warning signs include palpitations, tremors, stomach acidity, reflux and sleep disturbances, suggesting a need to reduce consumption." He stresses the need to cut back before symptoms escalate.

In the end, experts agree that tea itself is not the enemy. It is the quantity, timing and individual sensitivity that determine whether those daily cups help or harm. Choosing herbal alternatives, spacing out tea from meals, and being mindful of the body's responses can go a long way in protecting both mental and physical wellbeing.

The Legend of Aang has new cast members

CE FEATURES

THE star cast of the animated Avatar series The Legend of Aang: The Last Airbender has expanded with the inclusion of filmmaker Taika Waititi, Freida Pinto, and Ke Huy Quan. The trio, along with Geraldine Viswanathan, Dee Bradley Baker, and Peta Sergeant, have joined the voice cast, which already features Dave Bautista, Steven Yeun, Eric Nam, Jessica Matten, Dionne Quan, and Román Zaragoza. The makers also announced that the film will skip a theatrical release and stream directly on Paramount+.

The film will arrive alongside Avatar: Seven Havens, a brand-new animated series from Avatar Studios. Both projects are being developed by Avatar Studios, the Nickelodeon-backed division launched in 2021 to expand the world first introduced in Avatar: The Last Airbender and later continued in The Legend of Korra.

45: An intense meditation on karma, devotion, and life's fragility

45

Direction: Arjun Janya

Cast: Shivarajakumar, Upendra, Raj B Shetty, Kausthuba Mani, Rajendran, Pramod Shetty, and Manasi Sudhir

A SHARADHAA

SOMETIMES, an intense philosophical journey doesn't start with grand ideas but with small mistakes. 45 begins with such an uncomfortable truth. A moment, a life brushed past, another erased, serves as the lens through which a world of karma, fear, and devotion unfolds. Composer Arjun Janya takes on directing for the first time with this multi-starrer. The trailer suggested a confident rhythm, and the film confirms it. Arjun Janya's experience in layering sound translates into a cinematic rhythm that feels meditative, immersive, and unique. With Shivarajkumar, Upendra, and Raj B Shetty leading the cast, 45 is clearly a fantasy, and yet, it examines human mortality and the soul's journey through the Garuda Purana, karma, and how ordinary life collides with cosmic justice. Vinay (Raj B Shetty) is a 29-year-old software engineer living with his mother (Manasi Sudhir). A minor traffic accident, where Vinay hits a dog named Rosie, sets off a series of events that blurs the line between life and death.

Vinay (Raj B Shetty), software engineer in his late 20s living with his mother (Manasi Sudhir), leads a simple life with tender dreams: marriage, a cosy home, and quiet days. A minor accident, hitting a dog named Rosie, sets off events that blur life and death. The film begins with a bad dream, or perhaps something more, letting unease settle in and Vinay's confusion guides the audience. This quiet moment sparks the forty-five-day countdown. Arjun Janya approaches these questions thoughtfully. He constructs a fantasy world that gradually reveals its rules. Destiny is not treated as a dramatic twist but as a system unfolding in its own time, inviting the audience to observe and reflect. His fantasy is rooted in clear mythology. Death is a process, not chaos. Vinay's soul is pulled through a purgatory-like state, moving from life in the body to the moment he stands before Yama, guided by Rayappa (Upendra). The visuals never feel like mere spectacle. They carry the weight of consequences, love, and loyalty. Rayappa's line, "That is not just a dog. That is my mother," becomes an emotional anchor, redefining devotion in a single sentence.

RATING 4/5

While the first half builds tension, the second half significantly shifts with Shivappa's (Shivarajkumar) arrival. He reshapes the film's rhythm. His multiple avatars arrive with controlled energy, each marked by Shiva Tandava, making the final forty-five minutes a treat for fans. The narrative willingly opens up to accommodate his presence. Arjun Janya's technical skill shines through. VFX dominates the Garuda Purana sequences, Shivappa–Rayappa confrontations, and high-energy chase scenes. Managing this scale in a debut is impressive. The fantasy elements blend seamlessly with the story, and the screenplay ensures the mythology remains relevant.

The casting is intentional. Shivarajkumar's role as Shivappa is subtle yet powerful, and his Rudra avatar is visually stunning. Upendra as Rayappa is complex, showing violence in devotion rather than ambition. Raj B Shetty as Vinay balances these larger-than-life figures, carrying the philosophical weight of the story. Shivarajkumar commands the screen with multiple avatars. Upendra adds intrigue. Raj B Shetty's innocence makes his struggles relatable. Their chemistry, a mix of tension and gentle humor, keeps the story engaging.

On the other hand, the supporting roles suffer from minor inconsistencies. Pramod Shetty and Motta Rajendran occasionally falter, while Kaustubh Mani, Jaffer Sadiq, and Manasi Sudhir provide solid support. The lack of songs does not hinder the narrative. Arjun Janya's background score drives emotion, tension, and reflection. Cinematography by Satya Hegde is striking, enhancing both chase scenes and tender moments. 45 meditates on fear, death, and love. Vinay's life centers around five fears: job, friendship, love, family, and death. Four can be faced. The fifth is absolute. His mother occupies the emotional center, her well-being rippling across the universe. Through Rayappa, the film explores human devotion. What is madness, and what is extreme love? If Rayappa loved humans as much as he loved the dog, would punishment still seem harsh, or would the world feel fairer? The film creeps into our subconsciousness rather than shouting its themes at us. Vinay's countdown of forty-five days becomes a philosophical exploration of karma. Parallel worlds exist beside ours, detailed and intricate, with gods as witnesses, sometimes harsh and sometimes silent.

45 is a devotional fantasy and a commercial film, but it is also a philosophical exploration, reflecting on mortality and celebrating cinematic imagination. Arjun Janya, drawing on years of musical experience, delivers a rare visual and emotional experience. The film invites us to rethink the impact of small mistakes, the ripple of devotion, and the ticking of time that separates life from death. In its final moments, 45 offers its most powerful thought: Life and death are not opposites. They are separated by a small space. That space is our life.

The film encourages us to think about its themes. It allows viewers to feel the pulse of karma and shows how music, myth, and careful direction come together to create an unforgettable fantasy. A parallel world runs beside ours, unseen, detailed, and waiting. 45 transforms a road accident into a philosophical journey, reminding us that karma is imminent. Sometimes, it stands right beside us, quietly counting our days.

A SHARADHAA

SOMETIME in the middle of 2025, Sudeep made a promise about meeting his audience by the end of the year. The actor started work on Max director Vijay Karthikeyaa's next, Mark, in July, and the film was completed by December, reflecting his commitment to the schedule. Produced by Sathya Jyothi Films, Mark is set to release on December 25 in multiple languages. The investigative thriller follows a tightly planned production and aims to offer a structured, engaging narrative for audiences.

In conversation with CE, Sudeep speaks about commitment, momentum, and today's cinema.

Finishing Mark in less than four and a half months must feel like an achievement, right?
Considering the scale, including budgets, locations, sets, and crew, it was huge. Maintaining quality storytelling under such tight schedules is never easy. In such a scenario, you cannot rest. You wake up with the sole intention of going to work. Bodies waver, and there is fatigue, but momentum is everything. After the first schedule in Thoothukudi, I noticed the energy dipping. I called the team and gave a pep talk. We still had 70 per cent of shooting left. I reminded everyone of our intention. Suddenly, the pace picked up, and at one point, we did not even need a wake-up call. That is the spirit cinema requires.

On the set, how did you maintain energy and morale with such a tight schedule?
It is all about creating a support system. You motivate each other. The body and mind get exhausted, but the goal is to stay focused. Every schedule, every scene, we had to push ourselves while taking care of each other. That discipline defines whether a large-scale film works.

With Mark making it on a tight schedule, was there space for experimentation?
I was not looking for experimentation here. That was done with Max, which pushed me out of my comfort zone. With Mark, the challenge was scale and logistics. Vijay Karthikeyaa brought a story with emotional elements while maintaining entertainment. So it became an extended joy of Max, not an experiment. The emotional connection at the end ties the film together.

Mark* is not a continuation of Max, yet the investigative space keeps drawing you back...
I am enjoying it. There is a posture in this role that feels comfortable. I can manage my costume and performance without worrying about glamour or makeup. The pace, gripping screenplay, and structured narrative make it satisfying. By the end, the film says something meaningful, which I really liked.

As an actor, what creative inputs did you give while shaping the investigative layers of Mark?
Vijay is talented, so giving creative inputs is easy. With Max, I had to contribute more because he was still learning Kannada cinema. He visited theatres, watched films, understood audiences, and learned what they expected. With Mark, my inputs were minimal, just small tweaks. But that hand-in-glove actor-director relationship is essential; otherwise, the film does not work. Vijay takes Kannada seriously, and that dedication shows in the storytelling.

The film addresses human trafficking through a political drama. How intense was it on set?
The layers are complex. Some sequences give a small emotional edge, like a rough guy doing something tender. The indoor water sequence was intense, five days in cold water. My body cramped, I threw up, and the set needed cleaning daily. Those were very hectic days, but they gave authenticity to the film.

You've done back-to-back films with a Tamil filmmaker. Why the gap from Kannada filmmakers?
See, directors like Prem, AP Arjun, and Shashank keep on delivering. Sometimes, timing is the issue. For me, Prem is a great gentleman. I love and respect him. But availability is always a factor. AP Arjun is writing a story for me. I am happy when the director writes with me in mind. Mark came together ethically, with Sathya Jyothi Films and Kiccha Creations. Cinema is about aligning people, timing, and intention.

No actor survives without adapting. What is the biggest adaptation you have made recently?
Time is everything. Earlier, we had 25 days of work and 10 days off. Now, cinema demands speed, discipline, and constant effort. Actors and technicians must do their homework. You cannot expect them to reduce budgets or scale. All you can do is match the pace. This is how production remains efficient and films reach audiences on time.

Your look, hairstyle, and dressing in Mark feel different. Was that intentional?
I cannot be monotonous. Posters, style, persona, and habits all need freshness. That was part of the design. I enjoy bringing subtle changes in the character's personality.

How did the water and action sequences challenge you physically?
Those sequences were demanding. Cold water, cramps, exhaustion. But it adds realism. As an actor, enduring those challenges is part of delivering the story convincingly. It is not just about performing. It is about experiencing what the character goes through.

Your home banner is actively producing, with wife Priya handling distribution. Are you reviving your father's legacy?
Not exactly. Priya came in with her knowledge of cinema and business. Through KRG Studios, she handles distribution for Mark. It is her investment and expertise, not mine. If this works well, the industry will gain another serious distributor. This is the first step, and I hope Mark sets the benchmark.

Your daughter Sanvi has sung a song and has written stories for you. How do you view this creative equation?
I never pushed her to do things. She is talented and deserves the opportunity. For Mark, she sang Mast Malaika, and Ajaneesh Loknath praised her fully. Any new song, I encourage her to try. I want to support her dreams without forcing anything.

Today it is less about a heroine and more about strong female characters. How effectively does Mark use women on screen?
Within the story's parameters, the female roles are strong and meaningful. There was no need to cast someone just for the timeline. Women contribute authentically to the narrative, and that is enough.

Any reflections on collaboration with Vijay Karthikeyaa this time compared to Max?
Vijay has matured immensely. He knows the audience, the language, and the nuances. With Max, he was learning. Now, the collaboration is seamless. He blends commercial elements with structured storytelling, and it is a smooth process.

Any final thoughts on Mark and your approach to acting in such films?
Every project is about discipline, collaboration, and intention. Mark is fast-paced but carefully structured. It demanded physical endurance, mental focus, and emotional investment. Cinema is changing, and actors have to adapt, push themselves, and deliver. I am happy with the team, the story, and the way we kept our promise from July to December.
